CHANGES ASKED IN REPORTS ON CHURCH CODES

Episcopalian Group Favors
New Canon Covering
Divorce, Remarriage

BIRTH CONTROL DEBATED

Action Favored by Presbyterian Body — Asks Instruction on Marriage

New York—(AP)—The proposed divorce reform canon, drafted by the joint commission on divorce of the Episcopal church and made public yesterday, evoked favorable and unfavorable criticism today.

The Rev. Dr. Caleb R. Stetson, rector of Old Trinity church and member of the Anglo-Catholic wing here, approved the report in principle.

Dr. Stetson, who was a member of the commission, approved heartily the proposal for a diocesan court to pass upon marital cases.

From the liberal camp, the Rev. Dr. Guy Emery Shipley, editor of The Churchman, described the suggested canon as a "somewhat futile compromise."

"I have always felt," he said, "that the performance of the marriage ceremony should be divorced from the church, following the early Christian practice. At best, any attempted legislation by the church can be only a somewhat futile compromise."

The proposed canon embodies a radical change in the marriage law of the church. It would eliminate all grounds for divorce but at the same time create many grounds for annulment.

While waiving the church's centuries-old opposition to remarriage of divorced persons, it would authorize the establishment of ecclesiastical courts to pass upon marital cases, including annulment and remarriage.

Remarriage Not Favored

Bishop Herian Page, in issuing his report, warned that the suggested revision did not "throw wide open" the doors to remarriage of divorced persons.

"Under the proposed canon," he said, "no clergyman of this church can remarry divorced persons unless the bishop, or a duly constituted court, shall declare after due inquiry that the purposes of Christian marriage will be best served by the proposed marriage. And even then the clergyman may not use the form of service contained in the Book of Common Prayer, nor the services be held in the church."

Referring to the later proviso, the bishop said the commission felt some penalty should attach to those who "had failed to keep the vows in a former marriage."

The new canon would remove the penalty which consists in refusal of the sac-

TWO IN ESCAPE FROM CHIPPEWA COUNTY JAIL

Chippewa Falls—(AP)—Two prisoners escaped from the Chippewa-county jail here last night by sawing the bars of a cell. The fugitives, Jack LaPeau, held on charges of being an accessory to a robbery, and William Stewart, sentenced a few days ago to a 3 to 4 year prison term for robbery of a Stanley, Wis., store, were untraced today. It was the second time LaPeau has escaped.

Burke Pleads Guilty Of Slaying Officer

New Budget Is Presented To Commons

Snowden Estimates British Expenditures at $4,016,830,000

London—(AP)—Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, today announced in his budget speech a proposal for taxation of land values at the rate of one penny to the pound, a scheme which is opposed by the house of lords almost to a man.

Compared with this the rest of his speech was unexpectedly mild, with none of the dramatic measures which had been anticipated for the raising the $4,016,830,000 which is the estimated expenditure for the 1931-32 financial year.

The proposed land tax, which cannot be put into force for at least two years because of the necessity for preliminary valuation, would fall most heavily upon the country nobility, gentry with large estates many of which are kept almost exclusively for sporting purposes.

These elements of the population are strongly represented in the house of lords where the proposal is likely to be resisted to the last gasp.

Temporary expedients pending an anticipated general trade recovery were announced as a means of bridging the gap of $136,830,000 between the estimated expenditure for the 1931-32 financial year, and revenue on the present basis of taxation.

The greater part of the gap would be bridged by appropriation of $100,000,000 of the $165,000,000 dollar exchange fund kept in New York, a step made possible by the establishment of the Bank for International Settlements.

Snowden Speech Short

His speech was one of the shortest on record, lasting only one hour and nine minutes.

Apart from appropriation from the exchange fund, only two measures for obtaining the revenue needed for announced.

They were a 50 per cent increase in the tax on petroleum which the chancellor said he had concluded to raise from four pence to six pence, yielding $37,500,000, and an adjustment of the time at which certain brackets in the income tax list may be raised to a measure which would yield $50,000,000.

With the introduction of these measures, the chancellor said, the financial year should close with a surplus of $670,000.

Mr. Snowden said he was firmly opposed to the imposition of a revenue tariff and that the standard rate of the income tax would be increased. He did not even mention beer and tobacco which it had been confidently expected extra duties would be imposed.

David Lloyd George, the Liberal chief, said the land tax proposal rejoiced his heart, but he added that he would have adverse comment on the budget.

Neville Chamberlain, speaking for the Conservatives, said the budget might have been worse in some respects but that the Conservatives would offer stern opposition to the other portions.

OBEY CHURCH, POPE ORDERS FASCISTS

"If Fascism Wishes to Be Catholic It Must Think
With Church"

Vatican City—(AP)—Pope Pius XI in a letter disclosed today that if Fascism wishes to be Catholic it must obey the church and its head.

The letter was written to Cardinal Schuster, archbishop of Milan, and was a direct reply to a speech made by Giovanni Gentile, secretary of the Fascist party, in Milan on the anniversary of the founding of Rome last Tuesday.

"Fascism says it is Catholic," the pope's letter read, "and wishes to be Catholic. Now, in order to be Catholics not in name only but in deed also, in order to be true, good Catholics, not Catholics of false name and Catholics who in the great family of the church wound the heart of mother church by their manner of speaking and acting and give such a bad example as to drive others away, there is only one indispensable means—to obey the church and its head and to think with the church and its head."

The pontiff disagreed with Signor Giuriati over what the latter termed the political activities of the Azione Cattolica, a church organization with a large membership of Italian Catholics.

The Pope said the organization was solely spiritual in answer to Giuriati's assertion that it was encroaching on the Fascist state by forming similar groups of employers, employees and professional men.

LIFE SENTENCE FOR NOTORIOUS KILLER-GUNMAN

Slayer Due Tomorrow at Michigan Branch Prison at Marquette

St. Joseph, Mich.—(AP)—Fred Burke today was sentenced to life imprisonment at hard labor in the Michigan branch prison at Marquette for the slaying of Patrolman Charles Skelly. He is expected to be taken to prison tomorrow.

Sentence was passed by Circuit Judge Charles E. White. The offense on which Burke was sentenced was second degree murder. Judge White said there was evidence that Burke had been intoxicated the night he shot the patrolman and was not in full possession of his faculties.

Burke was taken back to the county jail immediately after sentence was passed.

St. Joseph, Mich.—(AP)—Fred Burke pleaded guilty at 1:35 p. m. today to the slaying of Patrolman Charles Skelly of St. Joseph in December, 1929.

The notorious mid-western gangster made his plea as he was brought before Circuit Judge Charles E. White in the Berrien circuit court at the afternoon session.

A hearing was immediately started to determine the sentence to be imposed. Earlier in the day it was indicated Burke would be immediately sentenced and taken to prison if he pleaded guilty.

Burke's plea ended a career of crime which made him notorious in a dozen cities in the midwest. The crime to which he pleaded guilty was the least spectacular of a long series of bank robberies and gangster assassinations with which he had been linked.

Patrolman Skelly was slain by Burke when he stepped onto the running board of the gangster's automobile to question him about a traffic accident in which he had figured. At that time Burke had been living incognito for some time in an elaborately fitted house on the outskirts of St. Joseph. In this house the police found pistols and machine guns as well as bonds stolen from a Jefferson, Wis., bank.

Among the witnesses summoned for the hearing which followed Burke's plea was Forrest Kool, a Berrien-county farmer. It was Kool's automobile which figured in the accident about which Patrolman Skelly sought to question Burke.

Burke stood silent in court. The plea was made in his behalf by his attorney, Charles W. Goro of Benton Harbor. There was a large crowd present and a heavy guard was in the courtroom.

The only other witness summoned for the hearing besides Kool was Dr. Clayton Emery of the St. Joseph sanitarium who attended Patrolman Skelly just before he died.

Burke was returned here from Missouri where he was captured in a farmhouse several weeks ago. There is no death penalty in Michigan.

Kassel, Germany—(AP)—After taking off from Doernberg Hill near here Police Lieutenant Henschel, glider aviator, yesterday broke all German records for glider flying by keeping in the air for eleven hours and one minute. He also broke the record of the local Wasserkuppe district which had been nine hours and twenty one minutes. Squalls, hail and rain made the flight very difficult but only darkness compelled him to land. He reached an altitude of 3,280 feet.

RUSSIAN ENOCH ARDEN IS REJECTED BY FORMER WIFE

Mexico City—(AP)—For 12 years Vladimir Gornier, a captain in the army of the czar and of the white army of Baron Wrangel, has dreamed of the day when he would be reunited with pretty Anna, Dimitri, his friend who married in 1919 before setting out on a campaign against the Bolsheviks.

Yesterday he found Anna walking along the principal street of Mexico City, but with another man, Sergio Jacobitz, whom, when she thought Gornier dead in battle, she had married.

The former czarist officer, mad-dened at the thought of losing her after so many years of hopeless search, threatened to shoot them both unless she came back to him, but Anna, after a moment's hesitation, chose to remain with Jacobitz and called the police to protect them from her former husband.

They all went to court today and told their story to police, who took

Eaton Quits As Head Of Big Concern

Cleveland Financier Resigns as Chairman of Conti- nental Shares

Cleveland—(AP)—Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier who founded Continental Shares, a $150,000,000 investment concern, has resigned as chairman of the board and heads of four Cleveland banks "have" been elected directors.

George W. Bishop, Cleveland and New York banker, and widely known public utilities and railroad executive, came from virtual retirement to become president of the Corporation, which holds large public utility, steel and rubber interests.

Bishop declared that "in my opinion there is absolutely no reason for Continental shareholders to be apprehensive as to the entire solvency of the corporation and the ultimate substantial enhancement of their investments, providing, of course, the financial storm ever stops."

Eaton issued no statement, but appeared to his associates as sanguine and cheerful.

Eaton does not relinquish any of his holdings and the move was made to inspire confidence in continental.

DENY BRITAIN REJECTS FRENCH ARMS PROGRAM

London—(AP)—Foreign office officials said today that persistent reports to the effect that Great Britain had definitely rejected the French proposals concerning the British-Franco-Italian naval accord were incorrect.

The position is, they said, simply that Great Britain has presented certain counter-proposals to France and that conversations are likely to continue for a week or more longer.

Dispatches from Paris said United States Senator Dwight W. Morrow was participating in negotiations concerning the British-Franco-Italian naval accord, but government officials here said they had no information to that effect.

3 ARRESTED IN RAID ON RESORT IN CALUMET-CO

Action Marks Start of Drive Against Roadhouses, Sheriff Promises

Invoking the assistance of the federal prohibition department at Milwaukee, Sheriff Gerhard Jensen of Calumet-county, Sunday night opened a campaign on "unsavory" roadhouses in his county with a raid on the Lantern Inn.

Three persons were arrested and taken to Milwaukee, where they were arraigned Monday morning before Floyd L. Jenkins, United States court commissioner, on charges of sale and possession of liquor. The case was continued until May 7.

The three are: Mrs. Margaret Pearl Daniels, known in Milwaukee as the blonde "Tiger Woman"; Leslie Kook, 32, Appleton; and Mrs. Helen Owens, 29, Appleton. Mrs. Daniels furnished bonds of $1,000. Kook and Mrs. Owens furnished bonds of $500 each.

When the dry squad, accompanying Sheriff Jensen and two deputies, swept down on the roadhouse about 9:45 Sunday evening, there was a dance in progress, and between 30 and 40 persons were present. The visitors were permitted to depart quietly, and only those who had charge of the roadhouse were arrested. Mrs. Daniels appeared to be in charge of the place, although there was some doubt expressed as to whether she was the owner. It was said, Kook was said to be the bartender, while Mrs. Owens was a "hostess."

Find Alcohol, Beer

The prohibition squad, which was directed by Charles Brown, the agent who posed as "Brad Bradley, match salesman," to collect evidence that resulted in a series of raids in downtown Milwaukee last January, uncovered considerable liquor. Frank Cunningham, director of the dry office at Milwaukee, said this morning the agents found five gallons of alcohol, three barrels of beer, a gallon of wine, a gallon of brandy, and a gallon of gin.

Mrs. Daniels gained publicity in Milwaukee as the friend of Hugo Mueller, Milwaukee police department official, who shot and killed

$55,000 FIRE LOSS AT N. WISCONSIN COLONY

Chippewa Falls—(AP)—Fire destroyed the large barn on the Northern Wisconsin Colony and Training School last night. Ten cows, 20 calves and 3 horses were killed. The loss was estimated at $55,000.

The blaze is thought to have been produced in defective wiring. The fire department was called, but the fire for feeble-minded, the Chippewa Falls department succeeded in preventing spread to any of the 25 other buildings. The flames raged for more than three hours.

Attendees said there were 95 head of cattle in the barn when the fire started, together with 21 horses, 20 tons of timothy and clover hay, a carload of alfalfa and two carloads of feed. The grain and hay were destroyed. Most of the stock was led out.

Col. John J. Hannan, president of the state board of control, said at Madison today that the loss is completely covered by insurance.

SEIZE BELONGINGS OF DOUKHOBOR FACTION

Nelson, B. C.—(AP)—Personal belongings of the Sons of Freedom, radical faction of the Doukhobors, have been seized by officers of the main sect following the bombing last Friday of "King" Peter Verigin's tomb.

Members of the group, blamed by authorities for various bombings, and the burning of schoolhouses, have not been forcibly ejected, but the moving of their property was taken as a warning for them to vacate their homes. The families have refused to leave.

Belongings of more than 200 families living in and near Brilliant, Glade and Thrums have been transported to a section of land near Porto Rico, owned by the main organization.

KOLOCHESKI SENT TO JAIL AND FINED $1,000

Milwaukee—(AP)—Donated a trial, "King" George Kolocheski, who was convicted in federal court last week on charges of maintaining a nuisance in the Country Club Inn, near Green Bay, was sentenced today to a year in the house of correction. Judge E. A. Geiger also imposed a fine of $1,000.

The employees at the roadhouse, one of the best known in Brown-county, also were sentenced. They had stood trial with Kolocheski. George Pifers, a waiter, was sentenced to a year imprisonment and fined $250. Harold Joppe, bartender, was sentenced to 60 days.

Jack Diamond, Notorious Gangster, Shot By Foes

New York Attorney General Ordered to Investigate Gang Activities

Albany, N. Y.—(AP)—The attorney general was ordered today by Governor Roosevelt to supersede the district attorney of Greene-county in the investigation of the Jack (Legs) Diamond gang activities. Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., left for Catskill immediately.

The governor's order named Diamond, his chauffeur, James Dalton, and Paul Quatrocchi, who was alleged to have assaulted a roadhouse operator, Joseph Cogliane, more than a year ago. Two grand juries investigated the Cogliane case but no indictment was returned. Authorities said the attack was the outgrowth of a beer "war," but that persons who could tell of the affair were afraid to testify.

Dalton is sought in connection with the attack upon Grover Parks, a truckman. Diamond was indicted in connection with that episode, and spent two days in jail before $25,000 bond could be posted last week.

NO TRACE OF ASSAILANTS

Catskill, N. Y.—(AP)—Jack (Legs) Diamond, gangster, for the second known time, was cut down and seriously injured by the gunfire of unknown assailants in the early hours of today.

The gang chief, who six months ago was shot and almost fatally injured in a New York city hotel room, went down today under the pattering fire of buckshot, sent into his back as he stepped from a Catskill mountain roadhouse west of the village. The shooting occurred three days after Diamond had been released in $25,000 bail, pending trial for a charge of assault.

Like the New York city incident, mystery clothed the shooting. The gangster himself could give no information and the companion who snatched his fallen chief back into the shelter of the roadhouse could only say that the gunfire came

RUSSIAN LUMBER ADMITTED TO U. S.

Mills Decides Shipload Was
Not Produced by Convict
Labor

Washington—(AP)—The much heralded "test case" of treasury regulations barring from importation lumber produced by convicts fell flat today when it was determined that a shipload of lumber which arrived at Providence, R. I., Thursday, did not contain any convict-produced lumber and it was ordered admitted.

Under-secretary Mills issued the order admitting the lumber after a hearing in which the importers, the A. C. Dudley Co. of Foughkeeps, N. Y., and the Amtorg corporation, business agency of the Soviet government presented affidavits that no convict produced lumber was in the cargo.

The plan of Russian lumber produced in sections of that country, north of latitude 60 was placed by the treasury under terms of the tariff act which prohibited importation of any goods produced in whole or in part by convict labor.

Soon after the ruling was issued an announcement in Russia that the steamer Anversovsk was sailing from Leningrad with a cargo of lumber to test that regulation. The steamer arrived at Providence last Thursday.

The under-secretary said that his decision was based on affidavits to the lumber carried by the steamer Anversovsk and if any more lumber came the importer must prove in each case that convict labor had not entered into its production.

STOCKS RALLY AFTER HEAVY SELLING WAVE

New York—(AP)—After declining $1 to $5 in the heaviest selling of the current decline, stocks rallied during the late traffic today, reducing or eliminating the losses. American Telephone fully recovered a $3 break and U. S. Steel put a similar loss to about $1.

Generally speaking, net losses were cut to the neighborhood of $1 for important shares, although railroad and specialties showed some sharp losses. New York Central, however, closed $2.62 lower after breaking $5.

Standard Oil of New Jersey, which sold as low as $33.50, rose under Saturday's final quotation, cut its loss to two. American Gas cut back all but 62 cents of a $2 decline.

Shares closing $1 to $2 lower included Westinghouse, Johns-Manville, Auburn Auto and Eastman Kodak. Radio and Ethelchem Steel lost only a few cents net.

Man Killed, Two Hurt At Barn Raising

One man was killed and two others injured Monday morning when a bent rused at a barn raising bee on the farm of Arthur Piechocki, town of Maine, was tipped over by the wind, falling on the workers. The bent is part of the barn frame work.

The dead man is Henry Winterfeldt, 53, town of Maine. He suffered a fractured skull which caused instantaneous death. His son, Arthur, and Edick Flech, 41, son of the man on whose farm the barn raising was being done, suffered slight concussions of the brain. They were treated at a doctor's office at Shiocton.

Survivors of the dead man are his widow, and nine children, Ray Sturt, Shiocton; Arthur, Shiocton; Irving, Appleton; and Norman, Orval, Paul, Willard, Leroy and Ethel, all residing at home.

LETTERS INTERCEPTED IN PRISON BREAK PLOT

Salt Lake City, Utah—(AP)—Eight letters written in Lemon juice were in the hands of Warden H. J. Davis of the Utah state penitentiary today as he probed a plot to free 21 prisoners.

The secret missives, addressed to a trustee, were intercepted and treated with heat after Warden Davis had been advised by Oregon prison officials that Wallace Crews, one of their prisoners, had been told of a plan to dynamite the walls in a letter from Hollywood, Calif. Two Utah prison guards were in solitary confinement and 10 others were under surveillance.

Warden Davis said the letters contained a general plan for the delivery, details of which he did not disclose.

OFFICERS MEET NO RESISTANCE IN DRY CLEANUP

Federal Marshals Arrive as Result of Recent Pro- hibition Raids

41 SERVED BY NOON

Arrested Persons to Be Tak- en to Ashland for U. S. Hearings

Hurley—(AP)—Federal authorities today attempted for the second time within a month to curb Hurley's lawlessness. Marshals armed with 63 warrants, practically made a clean sweep of establishments on Silver-st, notorious sporting rendezvous.

On April 1, owners of 39 establishments in the district were served with notices of injunctive proceedings. The evidence used as the basis of the injunctive notices also served as the basis of today's warrants.

United States Marshal C. H. Rawlinson, Madison, and Deputy Marshals were assisted by Sheriff Frank Espamer of Iron-county and Police Chief George Rubatt in serving the warrants and in making arrangements for the transfer of their prisoners to Ashland, Wis., for arraignment before United States Commissioner W. S. Cate. All defendants were released on their own recognizance.

The marshals had served warrants on 41 persons at noon, giving instructions to meet at the Iron-county jail this afternoon where conveyances will be applied for their removal to Ashland. The warrants named only operators and bartenders. No trouble was experienced by officers. A large crowd gathered to witness the proceedings.

Other Warrants Wait

A warrant for a Lewis Caravan agent not be served because he is now in jail at Rhinelander serving sentence for a liquor law violation. Other warrants named persons who were away on business or were employed elsewhere.

Evidence upon which the warrants were based was obtained by Federal Agents O. M. Miller and John F. Winans, who frequented the places several weeks ago, posing as a log scaler and an engineer. Although the agents obtained only near beer on the confidence of the proprietors and bartenders and made purchases of liquor.

Periodic raids on liquor establishments and disorderly houses, particularly during the last decade, have given Hurley the reputation of being the "oasis of Wisconsin." About a year ago it was estimated there was one saloon for every 68 persons in the state. Silver-st, the most notorious thoroughfare, was the center of the "trade" established in the heyday of the lumbering industry in northern Wisconsin and Michigan peninsula.

The first extensive raid conducted by federal agents which attracted attention to the lumberjacks' sporting rendezvous netted 67 prisoners in December, 1929. The prisoners Fred R. Zimmerman and Walter J. Kohler subsequently made demands upon the citizens to "clean up."

Hurley officials moved to cooperate but invariably there came a return of the same conditions which had prevailed.

GIpsy LEADER NABBED IN PLOT TO KILL RIVAL

Chicago—(AP)—Tene Binbo, whose ambition, police say, is to become ruler of all the gypsies in the United States, as brought back from New York yesterday to face a charge of trying to eliminate Angelo Nickels, one of his co-titers.

Binbo, police say, produced $250 to pay the gunmen but unfortunately for him the two men he selected to do the work turned out to be policemen and he left in a hurry for New York, where he was arrested. Police say they plan to question him also about four bombings of various gypsy establishments during the past month.

PORTUGUESE DEMAND REBELS' SURRENDER

Funchal, Madeira—(AP)—Hydroplanes from the Lisbon punitive expedition flew over the island today and stopped proclamations calling upon the rebel garrison to surrender.

A military junta has been in control of Funchal for several weeks, demanding home rule, and has defied the government's orders to end the rebellion.

DRIVER HELD AFTER AUTOMOBILE TRAGEDY

Chicago—(AP)—William A. Payne, 21, was held today for an inquest into the death of Otto W. Beer, 54, who was killed when struck by Payne's automobile Saturday night. Witnesses told police Payne drove on a block after the accident, stopped and returned on foot, then returned to his car.

Next Congress May Modify Dry Law, Labor Group Believes

REVEALS POLL OF SOLONS AT U. S. CAPITAL

Report Says Only 17 "Die-hard" Drys in Senate, 43 in House

Philadelphia —(AP)— Modification of the prohibition law to permit the manufacture and sale of light wines and beer is seen as a possibility at the next session of congress by labor's national committee for modification of the Volstead act.

A report of the committee, based on a congressional survey, asserts that there are only 17 "die-hard" prohibitionists in the senate and 43 in the house of representatives and that "victory is in sight if those who have voluntarily enlisted in this cause will make their wishes known to the senators and congressmen from their states."

The report was prepared by Matthew Woll, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, and I. M. Ornblum, president of the Cigarmakers' International Union, for submission today to the national conference of organized labor's anti-prohibition group.

"Of the 96 members of the United States senate," the report states, "84 are willing to vote for the modification of the Volstead act permitting the lawful manufacture and sale of beer and light wines; 15 believe that beer is non-intoxicating, but claim they are not justified in voting to change the present legislation; 12 admit that a majority of the people of their states are producers or consumers of illicit liquors, but claim that the organized church vote is of so much importance that they do not feel it good personal policy to oppose it; 10 feel that both the Volstead act and the eighteenth amendment should be repealed and the entire matter left to each state for the people of the state to decide what they want to do, and 3 refused to state their views."

"Our survey of the house shows that there are 144 members who are ready to vote to modify the Volstead act; 84 believe the act should be modified permitting the consumption of beer and light wines in the homes and each family limited as to the amount that may be purchased each month; 35 congressmen admit the majority of their constituents are producers and consumers of illicit liquors, but are fearful that the organized dry influence, while in a minority, are so well organized that demands cannot be openly flouted; 36 members, mostly from grain and fruit producing areas, are unwilling to vote to modify the laws; that 34 others fear that with modification, would cause racial troubles in their districts, and that 17 members refuse to indicate how they feel on the question at this time."

FILM STARS VENTURE INTO TRADE WORLD

Many Actors and Actresses Own Business Places in California

Hollywood, Calif. —(AP)— There are motion picture stars who when money was plentiful, prepared for a rainy day instead of spending lavishly on clothes, chauffeurs, butlers, maids and parties. And there are others who are preparing.

Belle Bennett is seen infrequently on the screen, but appears often at her "Grandma's Farm," an old-fashioned eating place on one of Los Angeles' thoroughfares. She employs an old lady to rock and knit and add a lot of home color to the place.

The city is plastered with billboards advertising Neph Beery's "Paradise Trout club" and already he is being imitated. Hoot Gibson, who once rode high, wide and handsome at Pendleton, is promoting rodeos. James Hall has gone in for hot dogs and hamburgers in a big way on the beach front.

Corrine Griffith and another former star of the same name, Raymond Griffith, own drive-in markets, as does Conrad Nagel. The beauty shop owners include Esther Ralston, Ethel Clayton and Kathleen Clifford. Miss Clifford first tried a flower shop, but as a friend put it, she awoke one morning with a lily in one hand and a bunch of uncollectable accounts in the other.

Eddie Nugent, Vera Lewis and William Haines are making money meeting the Hollywood demand for antiques. Lois Wilson runs a laundry, Jean Harshott an art store and Charles Bickford a gasoline filling station with a food shop in connection.

Several luminaries, including Mary Pickford, put in midday golf courses, but probably would part with them if tempted with a cash proposition. Real estate has made a fortune for Ruth Roland, former queen of the thrilling serials.

Generally fair tonight and Tuesday frost or freezing temperature tonight; somewhat warmer Tuesday.

General Weather
During the past 48 hours rain or snow has fallen generally in all sections from the Mississippi Valley eastward with 1.56 inches of precipitation reported from Boston, Mass., and 1.23 inches from Quebec, Canada. Considerable rain also fell along the southern Pacific coast with 1.06 inches occurring at San Diego, Calif. Fair weather prevails generally this morning in all the northern and western sections of the country, due to high pressure which is centered over the western plains states. Temperatures have fallen slightly during the last 24 hours in the eastern part of the country but are slowly moderating in all districts west of the Mississippi River.

BULK METHOD OF ROASTING COFFEE IS NOT EXACT

In Spite of Care It Is Difficult to Develop Uniform Flavor

It is virtually impossible to accurately roast coffee in bulk, because there is no exact way to determine when all of the batch is "done." One roast may be "high" and another "low," with the result that there is variation of flavor.

Hills Bros. overcame this uncertainty, by inventing and perfecting a radically different process—Controlled Roasting. By automatic control, a stream of coffee passes continuously through the roaster a few pounds at a time. Positive control of the heat is maintained, with the result that every berry of the rare blend is roasted evenly—to the degree that insures a rich, uniform, full-bodied flavor in every pound.

No other coffee tastes like Hills Bros. Coffee because no other coffee is roasted the same way. Controlled Roasting is Hills Bros.' process exclusively.

Grocers everywhere sell Hills Bros. Coffee in the vacuum can that keeps it ever-fresh. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is excluded from the can and kept out. Coffee packed in ordinary bags, even if air-tight, does not stay fresh. Ask for Hills Bros. Coffee by name and look for the Arab—the trademark—on the can.

SEES PANIC IF DRY LAWS ARE EVER REPEALED

Action Would Result in Financial, Moral Depression, Says Cedarholm

That the United States will see the greatest financial and moral panic and depression that it has ever gone through if the eighteenth amendment is repealed was predicted by the Rev. Anton Cedarholm, evangelist, in his address, "Will the Eighteenth Amendment be Repealed?" at the Baptist church Sunday afternoon.

He referred to the so-called liberty lovers who are trying to obtain liberty with license, chiefly those who are attempting to undermine the eighteenth amendment, as "wolves in sheep's clothing." The man who uses bootleg whiskey, he said, is as bad as the bootlegger himself.

Refuting the argument that the eighteenth amendment was forced upon the people of the United States, Mr. Cedarholm said: "This amendment was added to the constitution by the people to protect us and the generations to come. We are being told that the prohibition law was forced upon the people. I brand that an absolute, bold lie. The amendment was placed in the constitution by the overwhelming demand and support of the American people. Our representatives and state senators were sent to their state capitols with instructions from the people to pass the prohibition law. I worked for the prohibition law. I worked for the Anti-Saloon League at the voting polls and it was the brewery crowd that attempted to force the issue by buying the voters with liquor at the polls."

Enforcement Possible
Declaring that the prohibition law is the greatest expression of the American soul, and that the American people will never again permit their children to be thrown before the open attacks of the liquor gray-wolves, the evangelist assured his audience that the prohibition law can be enforced. He said that the people of America are tired of the weak method and the laxity of the enforcement of the law, and that they will put into office men with backbone.

"We are going to protect our boys and girls, teach them law and order and decency, and I do not believe the day will ever return when there will be opened and licensed saloons," he stated. "Our country needs a great revival of faith in God and the Bible, which always produces righteousness and law and decency and respect for law and order."

CLINICS WILL BE HELD AT SEYMOUR AND LITTLE CHUTE

Two special baby clinics have been scheduled this week by Miss Marie Klein, county nurse. The first will be held at Legion hall, Seymour, on Wednesday, and the second at the Catholic school in Little Chute on Thursday. Examinations will start at 9 o'clock in the morning and continue until 4:30. The Legion auxiliaries will have charge of local arrangements in each of the places. Dr. Elizabeth Taylor, of the state department of health, will conduct the examinations, assisted by Miss Klein.

In the Congressional record of June 5, 1930, we find the statement that at that date there were 118,670 prisoners in the state prison and of this number, only 33 per cent violators of the prohibition law.

The New York Curb exchange later announced suspension of the company from that market.

In connection with the suspension of West and Company, Distributors Group, Inc., sponsors of North American Trust Shares, one of the largest fixed trusts, issued the following statement:

"This morning at 11 o'clock we informed the stock exchange that, due to our present inability to meet our obligations, we felt it our duty to our customers and other creditors to suspend business. This we have done."

LAWRENCE PUPILS APPEAR AT RACINE

Present Program to Induce High School Students to Go to College

Three students of the Lawrence college Conservatory, under the direction of Dean Carl J. Waterman, presented a 20 minutes program before a gathering of high school seniors in Racine Friday as part of the "Go to College" movement recently established there by the Hi-Y clubs in an effort to interest high school seniors in continuing their education. Under this plan representatives of approximately 20 midwestern colleges are given opportunity to present programs for the primary purpose of advertising their school and telling high school seniors about the type of work which can be gotten there.

The Lawrence representatives were Marshall Hulbert, baritone, Russell Danburg, pianist and Jack Sampson, violinist. The Lawrence delegates attended a meeting of the sponsors of the movement at which final plans and arrangements for the remainder of the school year were made.

CLAIMS SHE IS VINDICATED IN FARO SWINDLE

Mrs. Myrtle Blackledge Says Assassination Proves Innocence

South Bend, Ind.—(AP)—Complete vindication of an accusation that she was a party to the large game swindle in which she lost $50,000, was claimed today by Mrs. Myrtle Blackledge, former internal revenue collector of northern Illinois through her identification of the body of George "Big" Perry, as the leader of the swindlers.

Arising from a sickbed in Chicago, Mrs. Blackledge came to South Bend yesterday and pointed to Perry as one of the three men who fled with the $50,000 after a card game three months ago at Springfield, Ill., Edward R. Litsinger, a member of the Chicago Board of Review who lent her the money, accused Mrs. Blackledge of being a party to the swindle. Litsinger maintained he was unaware of the nature of the transaction. Subsequently Mrs. Blackledge resigned her internal revenue position.

"It is just retribution that this man who almost succeeded in assassinating my reputation should, himself, die of an assassin's bullet," Mrs. Blackledge said. "His death vindicates me and proves that I had no part in the plot that swindled Edward Litsinger out of $50,000. The vindication gives me a new lease on life."

Meanwhile the police here and elsewhere were searching for Roy Browder and Roscoe Reynolds on the theory they were involved in the fatal shooting of Perry last Friday night near the garage at the home of his father-in-law, John Caniff. They expressed belief Browder and Reynolds were Perry's pals in the swindle and that Perry was slain because he "double-crossed" them in the dividing of the loot of the large game swindle.

Caniff was released by the police yesterday after Mrs. Blackledge had talked with the authorities, asserting she was confident he had nothing to do with the swindle. Perry's widow, Mrs. Ruth Caniff Perry was also released. Both she and her father, however, were ordered to hold themselves in readiness for further questioning.

Mrs. Perry turned over to police a key which she said she believed would open a safety deposit box rented by her husband in New York. The name of the bank was not revealed.

SAYS WOMEN WILL NEVER RULE WORLD

London.—"Women will never dominate the world. If that ever happens, then civilization must perish."

Such is the opinion of G. K. Chesterton, famous editor and author, who thinks that the woman's place is in the home and the more she is out of it the more difficult situations she creates for man to compete with.

"Not long ago women rose from the fireside and declared in a chorus that they would not be dictated to, and so they became tyrants," he says. "If man had glorified the household tasks and said, 'How wonderful is woman's performance of these tasks, how magnificent! feminism would not have run wild."

"And about woman's new freedom. Woman hasn't freedom. She had much more freedom in the home. At least, there she had the liberty of throwing furniture about. She could vary her work with her moods. Now she has become a slave to her employer."

Salient Points of Bidding

Contract: South passes and West opens the bidding with One No Trump. North passes and East, though he has 2½ Quick Tricks in his hand, bids only Two No Trumps, for he is utterly lacking in intermediate cards. South passes and West bids Three No Trumps, concluding the bidding.

The Play

The play has been generally described in the preface. North opens the Queen of Clubs and is allowed to hold the trick. He continues the Club and West takes the trick with the Ace in his own hand. The two of Hearts is led and taken with the Ace in Dummy. The Three of Hearts is led, and South refusing to take his King, the Jack in Dummy takes the trick. East is put in the lead with the King of Spades in order to lead another Heart. East and West must make two Spades, three Hearts, two Diamonds and two Clubs.

THE PENALTY OF GRAY HAIR

Gray hair—age—slipping. All these things seem to go together. Yet it is not at all necessary. Gray hair often comes to a young head and people who have it are neither old nor decrepit. But how often you hear people say, "Why, she has gray hair!" and she is on the shelf.

This penalty need no longer handicap the woman who uses Canute Water. This is a clear, spring-like water, of wonderful properties which actually restore hair to its original rich color. No complicated "color plan"; no danger of getting the shade when your hair is blonde. Not only the one kind but the one bottle is enough. It really is surprising what successful, youthifying results it gives.

Apply Canute Water yourself. In the privacy of your own home. Many women in town are doing the same thing; they simply do not mention it. You need not mention it either. Just buy a bottle from any good druggist—and get rid of the "age-penalty" in gray hair. Canute Water is so safe, so scientific and sure that your dealer knows it will satisfy you; if not, he will refund your money. Bring and recommended by Volget's Drug Store, Schilz Bros. Co., or your own druggist. — The Canute Co., Milwaukee, Wis., adv.

MOSLEYS STAKING POLITICAL LIVES ON "NEW" PARTY

Newest Political Group is Headed Either for Oblivion or Downing-st

London.—(AP)—Young Sir Oswald Mosley, his wife, Lady Cynthia, and their parliamentary infant, the "New" party, are headed either for Downing street or political oblivion. Sleek, elegant aristocrat of 34 active years, the sixth baronet of the Mosley line, Sir Oswald tried out all the old political parties, found them wanting and proceeded to organize his own. Their own, rather, for Lady Cynthia quit the labor party with her husband.

Adventuring against tremendous odds, old hands at Westminster say they have but slim chances of tangible success; that Mosley is throwing away a brilliant future.

The Mosley answer is that old England is in a bad way, facing a national emergency on such problems as unemployment, slumping foreign trade and industrial troubles.

Desperate remedies are needed, Mosley believes, and he offers a "National plan," parliamentary reform, import tariffs and a mellowed dictatorship or executive control of government.

For their realization Mosley stakes his political life in a gallant venture for those to whom national problems mean more than loyalty to the old parties.

Already this rebel scion of an old family has moved about the British

SELL FREEDOM LAND TO SATISFY MORTGAGE

Ninety acres of land in the town of Freedom will be sold at public auction on May 25 by Sheriff John Lappen to satisfy a mortgage foreclosure judgment. The judgment was granted April 7, 1930, by Judge Edgar V. Werner in circuit court. The property is owned by William Tetlauff, et al, and the mortgage is held by the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul. The sale was ordered April 10, 1931.

The fishmonger who sold bad fish in the Middle Ages had to stand in public with his malodorous wares suspended beneath his own nose.

THE PLAY OF A SUIT SHOULD BE DETERMINED BY THE NUMBER OF TRICKS PROBABLY TO BE TAKEN—NOT BY DESIRE TO CATCH SOME PARTICULAR CARD HELD BY ONE OF THE ADVERSARIES.

UTILITY REGULATION

We appear to be approaching the time when our legislature, after soaring happily among the clouds, is ready to descend and take up the serious matter of regulation of public utilities.

If we ascribe to public utilities the importance they are assuming in our political field, and apparently that importance is real—the people would be amazed to learn of the little effort made by the legislature in sessions past to handle these disputed matters, practically, and in the public interest.

Instead of getting down to brass tacks and taking hold of the question in a workmanlike manner the present legislature has treated us to grandiose schemes of universal municipal ownership or new competitive plants, and the opportunity at hand to correct rates where they are inequitable, to improve service where it is inadequate and to prevent profits where they are unreasonable, has nearly been forgotten in the shuffle.

But some of the bills now pending at Madison indicate that certain of the senators and assemblymen seem to know what they are about. The public interest demands that their measures be passed upon carefully.

Some of the larger public utilities in Wisconsin are controlled by holding companies which own all or a majority of their common stocks. Some of them pay large sums of money each year to their holding companies for finance services, others pay large sums of money each year to engineering companies, some of which are owned by the holding companies for the general direction of their engineering affairs.

One of the measures introduced in the senate requires the approval by the Railroad commission (and we hope its name is changed to Wisconsin Public Service commission as provided in another bill) of all payments for services to any such holding or engineering companies. Since this item is a substantial one and is charged as part of the expenses of the operating utility it is just that this be done.

This same bill provides that the expenses of the commission, a very substantial amount, must be borne by the utilities instead of being provided by a general appropriation by the state. And while this will increase the operating expenses of the utilities it is a just provision because otherwise rural communities that have nothing to do with public utilities are providing part of the funds to regulate them.

Providing also, as does this bill, that utilities must receive the commission's sanction before installing expensive equipment is a proper measure. Since the people must pay income on the amount expended for such equipment and pay besides for its depreciation and obsolescence, they should have a voice, through the commission, in determining its necessity.

In the assembly also are measures having to do with regulation. Bill 594-A, providing that "for rate purposes two or more municipalities" may be considered as one unit "where the same public utility or its subsidiaries" serve such municipalities, will make for clearing schedules, always intricate matters, of some of their confusion, and may make for lessening rates.

Bill 570-A is particularly meritorious. It provides for the appointment by the governor of a special utility counsel to serve for six years and whose duty it will be "to advise, assist or represent any Wisconsin city, village or town . . . in any and all matters relating to public utility affairs."

By the passage of such measures, by the investigation of utility affairs further, and the correction of such other conditions as the investigation shows to be reasonably necessary, will the people gird themselves to cope with the utility on an equal footing and therefore on equal terms.

Are the utility engineers more capable in understanding their problems than engineers employed by the state? Are utility lawyers more clever in establishing their side of a dispute than those representing the people? Are utility executives provided with better mentalities than the commissioners? Do utility employees, by the mere hiring, become a superior race of people? The fact probably is that they outwork—though never outtalk—our public servants. But if so, that is our own fault in preferring talk to work.

When we come to the point where we must admit that the government of this state, clothed with full power in the premises, is yet unable to handle utility matters, we come to a confession that we are choosing for office wholly incompetent men.

THE TRAIL OF THE KLAN

Indiana, ten years ago, was the hotbed, north of the Mason-Dixon line, of the Ku Klux-Klan.

This is no longer the fact because the people there have quit following the twisted path through the jungle.

In the field of morals some insidious harm must always be expected as one of the benumbing effects of an order which emblazoned on its masthead racial and religious intolerance. But in the political field, the course of such an effort is always more disastrous, as though politics did not have the stamina to withstand the inroads that such a creed makes.

The political leaders of the Klan in Indiana are dispersed. Most of them are in prison.

The latest one to take his cell at Leavenworth, is Ex-congressman Rowbottom, convicted and sentenced for selling postmastership appointments for cash.

These discarded leaders now include E. C. Stephenson, whose fiery tongue recruited the Klan to tremendous membership, sentenced for life for murder; Ex-governor Jackson and George V. Coffin, political boss, indicted for bribery; W. L. Smith and Joseph Huggington, both former grand dragons, indicted for conspiracy in formulating an auto theft ring; John L. Duvall who became mayor of Indianapolis on a Klan wave, for corrupt practices in his election; as well as others.

It has been a great lesson to the people of Indiana, nor should the rest of the country fail to profit by it.

The lesson is this: When any citizen of this country attempts to get a mass of the people to vote for another upon a platform of treating unjustly other citizens merely because their blood may have originated in some different part of the world or they may have learned a different religion at their mother's knee, he stamps himself, not only as unworthy of any support, but as a dangerous person whose activities must be watched.

THE BULGARIAN FAMILY

The modern Bulgarian family derives its origin from the Slavonic family, which is an offshoot of the Aryan tribe. And yet, during the course of time, it has preserved very little of the spirit or the traditional customs of the original family, especially in the case of the rising generation.

The original Slavonic family was based on the patriarchal system, and many of the customs are rigidly observed up to the present time in the village family life. As a rule, it was always the eldest male member who was considered the supreme head of the family. He was, and is today, a veritable little king within his domain. His will or command is irrevocable, and no member of the family or relations would dare or think of opposing him, or even show disrespect in any shape or form. The sons and nephews, married or single should remain for all time within the walls of the family circle. When a male member desired to marry he would first consult with his supreme head, and after receiving his blessing, or permission, would proceed to court his bride, until the heads, or little kings of both families had completed the nuptial arrangements concerning dowries and so on. Immediately this male member married, his wife became a part and parcel of the family on the husband's side. All the male and female members worked the land for the benefit of the family as a whole, as was the property the little king possessed, this collectively belonged to the members of the household.

With the passing of time and the advance of civilization a number of these hard and fast rules which were observed in the daily life of the old Slavonic family have changed. The spirit and organization of the present Bulgarian family life, especially during the present century, have changed very considerably. The sons are now free to make their own matrimonial arrangements, and after getting married, they are free to leave their father's house and arrange their life according to their own desires, but at the same time they retain certain traditional usages and show all the respect due to the supreme head. The death of the father usually brings about the breaking up of the family property, which in the past was divided equally between the male and female members.

As a rule, the Bulgarian peasant is a good husband and a good father. There are, of course, exceptions to the rule. He is very attached to the land and to his domestic animals. His love for the motherhood which feeds him and his family is so deeply rooted that very often he will fight to the death with his father or brother to retain, or obtain, an extra square yard of land. In the judicial records there are cases where two neighboring villages have gone to law over a small piece of common land, the case usually going for years, and in the end, their taking up arms against one another in order to settle the dispute between themselves. Fortunately in recent years such cases are becoming a rarity, but it is interesting to make mention of this in order to illustrate how deeply the Bulgarian peasant is attached to his piece of land, whether large or small. Even today there are peasants who, when speaking of the few acres of land they hold, express their pride by stating, my estate. —SOME BULGARIAN REVIEW.

WOTINECK is there to start the column off with today? . . . we sat thinking for twenty minutes about a bright and smiling method to get going on this time . . . then the boss came over and tapped us on the shoulder and asked us politely what we wanted for breakfast . . . he just doesn't understand . . . so we had to start off without any ideas . . . which is probably just as well . . .

CHICKEN POX

They bring me supper on a tray
An' won't let me go out to play.
An' Florence May, who lives next door,
Can't visit for a week or more
Or step inside our house at all,
Cuz children aren't allowed to call
An' see my dolls and building blocks,
I'm all broke out with chicken pox!

I feel all right but I've got spots
All over me like little knots.
You tie 'em wool, an' while they're red
The doctor makes me stay in bed,
But I can hear the children about
An' I don't see why I can't get out.
An' mother says: "Don't worry so,
You've got the chicken pox, you know!"

The chicken pox is something which
Won't hurt you much but makes you itch.
An' everywhere there is a patch
That is the place you want to scratch,
But nurse won't let you, an' all day
She thinks up games which you can play
So you'll forget (that's what she said)
How hard it is to stay in bed.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

THE CURE OF THE CARRIER STATE.

Typhoid Mary, who achieved fame by traipsing from place to place, in pursuit of her employment as cook—they tell me she was one grand cook—and innocently leaving in her wake a long line of typhoid fever cases, at least taught the man in the street that there is such a thing as a healthy "carrier" of disease.

A typhoid germ "carrier" is a person who has had typhoid fever (whether the original illness was so diagnosed or not) at some time—perhaps many years ago, and still harbors somewhere in the body a focus of infection whence virulent typhoid bacilli are given off either constantly or at intervals, so that the individual may spread the disease just as the he or she were ill of typhoid fever.

To the best of our present knowledge most known typhoid carriers; if not all, harbor the focus of infection in the gallbladder. That is a little sac the size of a hen's egg, smaller, which serves as a reservoir for bile, which it squirts thru the gall-duct into the intestine a few inches below the lower gateway of the stomach, at intervals, as the bile is required for intestinal digestion. Once the gallbladder is so infected, excretion is the only effective way to cure the carrier state. Are we justified in asking an innocent typhoid carrier to give up his or her gallbladder merely to put an end to the elimination of the typhoid germs?

If I were the "carrier" I should prefer the operation to the constant supervision and surveillance of the health authorities. A gallbladder is more or less superfluous in the modern human economy anyway. What's the odds if it has gone bad on a fellow? Besides, we know that uncurd typhoid infection of the gallbladder often leads to gallstones after several years. Who wants to save a few of gallstones or the makings of one?

Diphtheria carriers are as hard to cure as typhoid carriers. Most diphtheria carriers harbor the diphtheria germ focus in the tonsils. Radical surgical removal of the tonsils sometimes clears up the carrier state, but not always. If I were a diphtheria carrier I'd hesitate about undergoing surgical tonsillectomy just for the sake of a possible cure of the carrier state. But I wouldn't mind submitting to a few diathermy treatments.

A nine year old boy had a sore throat and was kept out of school but no doctor was called. Later his young sister developed sore throat and the throat loosed bad, so a doctor was called. The doctor found membrane in the girl's throat. Cultures showed diphtheria in both cases. Antitoxin was given both patients. The little girl soon recovered and her culture became negative and week after week the boy's culture remained positive, and finally the city health department had a test made for virulence (to make sure the diphtheria germs the boy carried were the kind that really cause diphtheria) and this was positive. It began to look like a long hard winter for the boy and his family, for quarantine must be kept for as long as the throat gives off virulent diphtheria germs. Finally the family doctor noted his diathermy apparatus to the home, and electro-coagulated the surfaces of both tonsils, and a week later, after the coagulated surface had sloughed off, the cultures became negative and remained negative. The carrier was cured.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Cellulitis.

What is cellulitis? I heard of a woman dying from it. I have been taking celluloids for several months. Is this dangerous? They are the 12 minerals put up in sugar of milk. (Mrs. G. C. O.)

Answer.—Perhaps you heard of some one having cellulitis. That is a severe spreading inflammation of the loose connective tissues between various organs. It has nothing to do with taking minerals. It is silly to take 12 or any other number of minerals, further than one sets in ample quantity and number in most natural foods.

Bambino Has Fourteen Colds.

My baby just a year old has 12 teeth and now she's cutting her two stomach teeth. Every tooth she cuts causes her to have severe cold in the head. She also has pains in her ears as she keeps poking at them. She is so cross it is almost impossible to keep her satisfied. Sometimes she has fever . . . (Mrs. C. M.)

Answer.—The only clue to the baby's real trouble is in that naive remark that it is almost impossible to keep her satisfied. That implies something about her diet, or possibly medicines. Anyway, I can only assure you that cutting a tooth never seriously upsets a baby's health. Of course every baby of that age is cutting teeth every little while. "Teething" is not a fair diagnosis of the baby's troubles. More frequently it is actually worse feeding or sometimes actual illness. Cutting teeth never makes a baby ill.

Ballet Dancing.

My daughter who will be 10 in June has been taking ballet tap dancing. Now she wants to take tae. Have been told she is too old to start tap dancing, and it is a terrible strain on the sex organs and she will have trouble when she grows up. (Mrs. W. B.)

Answer.—I don't know whether a lady of 10 is too old to learn ballet or tap dancing, but I can assure you no such dancing is any strain on any organs except maybe the heart. If the dancing teacher thinks your daughter is not too old to be successful let her go ahead with her study of dancing. Ben Told is all woody about that.

Dusty Trade.

My husband works in the building line as a setter and he complains of the dust. Every evening his nose and throat are full of dust. What should he use to clear it out? (Mrs. A. C.)

Answer.—Let him snuff a little powdered dried soap and blow the nose one side at a time.

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

SAID Scouty. We are in a school and now's no time for us to fool. Let's sit right down like good boys. Maybe we can learn a lot. "Oh, no," replied the Travel Man. "I'm positive, you never can. The lessons that we hear will be in Chinese, like as not."

And he was right. The girls and boys soon started making lots of noise. "They're reading of their lesson," said the Travel Man. "Be still. You see, they chant it, all as one. To you it seems a lot of fun, but if you did that for a spell it wouldn't be a thrill."

Then came a simple exercise and Copy said, "Gee, they are wise to get that physical training. It will make them nice and strong. Let's join them. We can all do that unless we slip and fall down flat. And that won't happen if we do things right instead of wrong."

And so they formed right into line and, my, they got along just fine until poor Clowny stubbed his toe. Down on the floor he flopped. Two Chinese youngsters grabbed him quick and one said, "I hope you're not sick." "Oh, no, I'm merely clumsy," Clowny said. "That's why I dropped."

When everyone had exercised, the Tynmites suddenly realized that School was out and Scouty said, "Come on, we'd better go." Then two tots joined them and one cried, "We're going to sit down, side by side and do some work. Why don't you watch? It may be quite a show."

"Of course we will," we Carry said. "So, with your work you go ahead." The little fellows started in and didn't make a slip. They painted on some paper, white and everything they did looked right. Next story.

A Bystander In Washington

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—From dusty files in the manuscript division of the Library of Congress there comes the story of a perhaps hitherto unchronicled incident of Admiral Perry's historic expedition in 1854 to open the isolated empire of Japan to western commerce.

The document, written by John Glenroy Sproston, was found by a woman engaged in preparations for the establishment of a Japanese vision in the library. Sproston was an officer in the expedition.

It was March 28. The United States squadron lay at anchor off Uraga, and negotiations were progressing toward a treaty. Four Japanese ships approached. Japanese commissioners sought and were given permission to visit the Admiral's flagship.

"Five or six officers from this ship (the Macedonian), I among them," wrote Sproston, "started in a boat for the flag ship. . . . On the quarter deck were arranged tables, or I might say a table, for they were placed so as to form one continuous array of delicacies. . . .

Merriment
"Having walked round the ship, they (the Japanese) descended into the cabin with the commander and the captain."

"Their retainers remained on deck and joined us in the onslaught on the numerous edibles there displayed. Campaigns, sherry, port, whisky punch, and in fact every kind and quality of wine or liquor that come first to hand satisfied their wants."

"Rather tall and gaunt Japanese that sat next to me drank them all, and was of course rather merry afterwards. The various toasts of the evening were 'Japan and California, may they be united by steam and commerce' and 'The ladies of Japan, may we become better acquainted with them.'"

"In the course of the afternoon the Commodore made his appearance on deck with the commissioners, and said: 'Gentlemen, we will now adjourn to hear the minstrels.' A profound silence followed by a shrill whistle from one of the Japanese followed this."

Day's End

"The Commodore looked grave (no one appreciates a joke less than he does). However, all hands proceeded to the place of amusement. . . . I thought that the commissioners would have died with suppressed laughter (for they never laughed out, as we did). . . . I looked, and to my astonishment saw an arm placed affectionately around the Commodore's neck, the arm being that of the chief commissioner (what will not champagne do?)"

FINAL ARRAYS ATTACKS

On April 27, 1917, the English launched the first of the final attacks on the eight-mile front north of Monchy-le-Preux. General Sir Douglas Haig, British commander, reports it as follows:

"The assault was launched at 4:25 a. m. By British and Canadian troops and resulted in heavy fighting which continued throughout the greater part of the 28th and 29th of April. The enemy delivered counter-attack after counter-attack with the greatest determination and most lavish expenditure of men. Our positions at Gavrelle alone were again attacked seven times with strong forces and on each occasion the enemy was repulsed with great loss."

In spite of the enemy's desperate resistance the village of Arleux-en-Gohelle was captured by Canadian troops, after bitter hand-to-hand fighting; and English troops made further progress in the neighborhood of Oppy, on Greenland Hill, and between Monchy-le-Preux and the Scarpe. In addition to these advances, another 1,000 German prisoners were taken by us in the course of two days' fighting."

The Travel Man explained that they were doing brushmanship. (Copyright, 1931, NELA Service, Inc.)

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

New York—Pola Negri is writing her memoirs.

Her title for them is "Confession," a title fraught with meaning.

But wait—have patience. They are not to be published for some time although she has written up to the last hundred pages. The Polish vamp of Hollywood knows the better part of valor. Oh, my, yes, as chatter writers say for sake of punctuation.

Discreet Pola is dashing off her experiences and recollection in her spare time, of which she has had quite a bit while the talkies caught up with her account.

But she explained that some of the names will have to be aged in her manuscript, especially in her wartime anecdotes. She was rather cryptic about that, smiling the enigmatic Negri smile.

Same Pola
Rudolph Valentino's name and that of her lately divorced Prince Mirant will have a page or more in her book, we may be pretty sure. Both gallant gentlemen are already in her past.

Miss Negri received us in her Park avenue hotel with a typical Pola pose. There was no tiger rug in the room, so she was sloped sedately enough against a heap of divan cushions, her right cheek laid on her clasped hands.

She wore a flowered chiffon dress (we guessed it was chiffon) was the color of a pitcher of snapdragons. Miss Negri was just stopping here a few days between Europe and Hollywood. Even so, the fan mail was trickling in from New York admirers who had read of her arrival. She showed one note.

It was from a Polish boy who asked if he might play the violin for her. At the same time the office called. She was waiting in the lobby to see her, that the woman said she was a relative. "Poor thing," said Pola. "I have no relatives."

"Hollywood, I Am Back"
Miss Negri is back to try for the talkies. It has been at least three years since she made a picture. Two of those years have been passed in Paris and London.

She was so ill for one year that time that the doctors would not let her read newspapers, so she was curious to find out just what had happened to Hollywood.

She likes Hollywood and missed her sun-bathing. Her illness, she thought, was caused by the European cold.

She wants to interpret Flaubert's Madame Bovary for the first time in what she calls the cinema. Then maybe Hollywood will let her do a talking-singing version of "Carmen."

"I have a singing voice, you know," she said.

Her accent seemed as good as Marlene Dietrich's, for example. "I learned English from a Scotch teacher before I came to America," she recalled. "Years ago I spoke with a Scotch accent."

Almost every day I speak five languages. My maid is French and my friends who telephone are of many nationalities, Russians, Poles, Germans, Italians."

Home again is Hollywood, where she has "holdings."

"I leave Wednesday," she said, "for a new venture."

And so we turn Pola Negri over to the Californians.

A society of waiters is being formed. It should be called some sort of order.

"I wish they'd get out something new in Hosiery."

WELL, THEY HAVE.

Perhaps you've said or thought it as you've pulled on the same conventional patterns in socks.

Now, with "Free Wheeling" comes "free feeling" in patterns and colorings . . . in hosiery.

You can match your tie . . . your shirt . . . and without being the least bit noisy, you can span that gap between your trouser cuff and shoe with a style that hosiery has never before shown.

WALKER SAYS REDS STARTED GOTHAM DRIVE

New York Mayor Declares
He Is Merely "Temporary Target"

New York — (P) — Mayor Walker, who is facing removal proceedings on charges of condoning incompetence and encouraging corruption, ascribes his difficulties to Communist activities.

Speaking before a communion breakfast of 2,000 members of the New York City Fire department yesterday, he said he was merely the "temporary target" and that the attack would be "widened to include other public men. Its object, he said, was to tear down American institutions."

"The efforts will become more manifest as the movement to destroy confidence in city officials grows," he said. "It is a matter not so much for me to worry about as business to worry about. After they undermine public confidence in the city municipal government, then the state, then the nation—then they will go into the business world."

The mayor, without mentioning names, referred to men "who ascend to the pulpit pretending a background of Christ's holy word or the Torah." A week ago in his reply to Governor Roosevelt, the mayor made caustic mention of Rabbi Stephen S. Wise and John Hayes Holmes, pastor of the Community church, who signed the charges against him.

Mr. Holmes, at the Academy of Music in Brooklyn, yesterday attacked Mayor Walker, Tammany and the "Republican machine" which he said, "shares in the spoils." He proposed a revision of the city charter in which the mayor would be nothing more than a figure-head and predicted that it would take 10 years to clean up New York.

Samuel Untermyer denied that District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain, now involved in ouster proceedings, would resign. Mr. Untermyer, as counsel for Mr. Crain, called the rumors of the resignation "hostile" propaganda.

Paul Blanshard, executive secretary of the city affairs committee which drafted the charges against the mayor, ridiculed the statement that a Communist plot was responsible for the attacks on the mayor. "Whenever a public official stands

Who's Who On The Appleton Post-Crescent

Number 43

(This is the forty-third of a series of articles about members of the staff of the Appleton Post-Crescent. The articles will seek to acquaint readers of this newspaper with those persons as individuals and also will discuss the nature of their work. Members of the staff are presented in the order of their length of service. The forty-fourth article will appear tomorrow.)

With his inevitable big black cigar, his brown hat pushed back slightly from his forehead, Harold K. Derus sits stolidly in his chair, pounding out the copy of a star reporter, re-telling the details of a bandit chase on the highway, the renewal of a county board debate, or the destruction of a sweeping fire. He has the important duty of keeping an alert watch on the activities of the police, the courts, county business and county politics, in all their wide ramifications.

Mr. Derus came to the Post-Crescent in 1925, starting as a "cub" reporter. He worked his way into the various runs on the staff until he became the police and court reporter. Mr. Derus admits that he even handled the society desk for a week, a feat altogether too long for a man adapted to police reporting.

He began his career as the Kaukauna correspondent for the Post-Crescent when he was running a newsstand there. He was born in Kaukauna, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Derus, Jr., still live. Carrying papers was the first paying job Mr. Derus ever had, and when he finished school he managed a music shop for more than a year.

He went to Holy Cross school and Kaukauna high school. Mr. Derus was well known in his high school days for his participation in numerous activities. His classmates remember him as their school cheerleader and a guard on the football eleven. He was active in forensics, entering into debate, oratorical and extemporaneous work.

Harold K. Derus

He was a member of the high school orchestra and glee club, and took part in many of the local plays.

There are three things that Mr. Derus enjoys and this summer will see them all accomplished at once, namely travel, golf and bridge. He will include his golf clubs with his luggage when he leaves for a trip to Europe this summer. He is assisting A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, in preparation for the European tour for teachers, and he will accompany the tourists. Mr. Derus plans to fly across the English channel from London to Paris.

He has made several shorter trips in America, going to Texas and Mexico, Washington, D. C. and Yellowstone National park. Mrs. Derus accompanied him on the last two journeys. Mr. and Mrs. Derus live at 123 S. Appleton-st.

ALFONSO VISITS HIS FRIENDS IN LONDON

London — (P) — Accompanied by his son, Prince Don Juan, Alfonso, deposed monarch of Spain, today paid calls upon a number of London friends. As they left the hotel Alfonso shook hands warmly with the Scotland Yard detective who has been detailed to accompany him during his stay in England.

The strictest secrecy is being maintained regarding Alfonso's plans and the only thing definitely learned is that his stay here may be prolonged well into this week.

NEW STATE ROAD MAP COMPLETED FOR DISTRIBUTION

New London Man With Corps Ordered Back from Nicaragua

Madison — Wisconsin's new highway map has just been completed by the state highway commission and will be sent free to all people making application. Each member of the legislature is furnished with 250 copies for free distribution in the communities represented by them. More than 100,000 copies of this map have been printed to meet the increasing demand.

The map is approximately 36 by 50 inches in size and is drawn to a scale of 13 miles to the inch. It is printed in black and contains inserted maps of highway routes through all the larger cities of the state including, Kenosha, Milwaukee, Madison, Waukesha, Stevens Point, Manitowish, Fond du Lac, Janesville, Oshkosh, Eau Claire, Appleton, Green Bay, Marinette, Ashland, Superior, La Crosse and Beloit.

Views of some of Wisconsin's scenic spots are reprinted on the back of the folder together with a full list of highway mileages, rules of the road in Wisconsin and a table of distances. There is a short article explaining the scenic and industrial advantages of Wisconsin. The map contains an invitation by Governor La Follette asking people to visit the scenic spots of Wisconsin.

"We welcome them and we invite them to find refreshments in our countryside from the river valleys to the shores of the lakes, from the rolling farm lands to the forests," declared Governor La Follette. "In these highways and the communities which they serve may be read a chapter in the story of our people and the creation of a new Commonwealth. In maintaining and improving our highway system, we seek to add new chapters in that history worthy of those that are completed."

CONVICT CAPTURED BY NEW YORK COP

James Nannery Returns to Prison After Three Years of Freedom

Morrisstown, N. J. — (P) — James Nannery, fugitive from Sing Sing and once a member of the notorious Cunliffe-Rodgers gang in New York city, was back in prison today after three years of liberty.

He was captured by a "small-time" patrolman with a memory for faces and gave up without a struggle.

With a woman companion, Nannery drove into Dover, N. J., yesterday and made the mistake of parking in a space reserved for automobile busses. Patrolman Charles E. Ripley, who had intended merely to tell him to move out of the place, recognized him from photographs as he approached.

"Where's your license?" Ripley asked. As Nannery reached for his inside pocket, Ripley pushed a gun against his ribs and ordered him to throw up his hands. While Ripley marched his

Girls Told Not To Keep High Manner

BY ANGELO PATRI One of the girls who was graduated from our school several years ago stopped into the office to talk to me, "I'm still working in the shop. I like the work and my father likes to have me with him. But you know I want to be married and have children and a home of my own."

"Well," "Nobody asks me. I have plenty of beaux. But they drop off and marry somebody else. Now, please, if you know why, tell me. Am I not as attractive as any of the girls?"

"More so, I would say. But if you want my guess I'll let you have it. You are too high priced for the boys."

"What? Me? Why I don't even go to a movie more than once a month. I don't."

"Wait a minute. Look at yourself in that mirror over there. Do you see a very expensive lady? Your shoes cost about what one of the boys could earn in a week. Your hat, another week's wages. The dress you wear, the beads, the purse you carry, your costume would stagger any boy of our acquaintance. How could he ever earn so much?"

"He wouldn't have to. My goodness, I don't care about these clothes. He should give them to me. He wants me to look nice. I want to look nice. Boys don't want to go out with a girl unless she is a good dresser."

"True enough, but they don't want to buy the dresses. It's very nice to go to a party with the best dressed girl in town. But marrying the best dressed girl in town, unless you have the price, is another matter."

"You mean that? Now there's Nick. I have a date with Nick this week. The first in a long time. Do you think that I'd better dress down this time? Think Nick would like me better?"

"Nick likes you too well already. If you listen to me you will dress the way you would dress if you were Nick's wife and he was paying for the costume. And I'd invite him home after the show and have coffee and cake. Make the coffee yourself and serve it yourself. In short be yourself. It is yourself that Nick happens to like."

"Honestly? Does he like me?" "Many a fine boy has been scared off by a party dress. A high manner. A gorgeous style. These days a man doesn't earn much money until he is over thirty. He would get married before that time if he could find the girl who would stand by and make things go without assuming an air of self sacrifice every time she put on a gingham apron, or the new rose budbed rubber ones that have displaced the old gingham."

Love comes first but a household must be financed. If the pretty girl will only remember that and give the boys a hint that they can and they will stand by and help, some of them will be married right soon. How do I know? The boys told me.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing stamped addressed envelope for reply. . . .

Girls Told Not To Keep High Manner

BY ANGELO PATRI One of the girls who was graduated from our school several years ago stopped into the office to talk to me, "I'm still working in the shop. I like the work and my father likes to have me with him. But you know I want to be married and have children and a home of my own."

"Well," "Nobody asks me. I have plenty of beaux. But they drop off and marry somebody else. Now, please, if you know why, tell me. Am I not as attractive as any of the girls?"

"More so, I would say. But if you want my guess I'll let you have it. You are too high priced for the boys."

"What? Me? Why I don't even go to a movie more than once a month. I don't."

"Wait a minute. Look at yourself in that mirror over there. Do you see a very expensive lady? Your shoes cost about what one of the boys could earn in a week. Your hat, another week's wages. The dress you wear, the beads, the purse you carry, your costume would stagger any boy of our acquaintance. How could he ever earn so much?"

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE
© 1929 by NEA SERVICE, INC.

UNDER a pile of filmy lingerie Sue had caught the blue-green shine of an emerald. She leaned closer but she did not touch the stone. She knew that it was the one that she had sold that afternoon. And she knew that Barbara, with her violet eyes on the weird beauty of the jewel, must have obtained it right away.

"But why isn't she wearing it to-night? Why did she hide it here?" she asked herself. "Why didn't she leave it at home if she didn't want it on her finger? Of course it would have been bad taste for her to have worn it.... but Barbara never thinks about taste. She would like to make me uncomfortable."

She thought of the way in which Barbara's pansy-colored eyes opened widely, her red lips parted breathlessly, as though she were as innocent as the cupid on a lace paper valentine.

Sue didn't touch the ring. She put the lingerie on top of it again, found a slip in another pack, and slipped it over her head. Then she let the folds of white drifted lace fall over her head. The dress had cape sleeves and a skirt that was surprisingly full, yet soft, and holes that gaped and grew larger as she touched the lace.

Sue put on the silver-white slippers. They fitted perfectly.

Then, dressed in Barbara's clothes, she went into the other room.

"But the blue dress...." Jack began when he saw her. "Sue, didn't you tell me your new dress was blue like your eyes?"

"I said it was blue," she answered laughing. "But I didn't compare it with my eyes, Jack. But it was a lovely, sea-going blue. But...."

"Barbara's wearing it, isn't she?" He didn't glance across the room. "She came out and laughed about her trade, and the way she had made it. Said you were sitting on the bed wondering what to do next and a few other caustic remarks."

"Oh, she did?" Sue's cheeks were flaming and her eyes were darker. "Well, I just came out to make her give me back my dress."

She walked up to Barbara. "The ten minutes trial period is up, Barbara. I suppose I ought to wait until twelve to go back to my Cinderella dress but if you don't mind I'll slip into my role right away."

"What do you mean?" Barbara asked. "What role?"

"I'd like my dress, please. I don't want to wear yours. I might spill something on it."

Barbara laughed lightly, frostily. "It's too late now. I'm going to dance."

"Wait!" Sue's voice was low but there were smoldering fires in it. "Your dress seems to be falling to pieces. There are holes in the lace."

She raised one arm, and the pressure from the waist sent a long shimmering tear down the side. And here, and here, and here....

"It would seem that Cinderella as you called yourself, already has her rags," Barbara answered lightly, but the sweetness of her eyes and lips was supposed to take away the sting of the words as she glanced at the men in the group.

Sue remembered another humiliation she had once endured. Sybil had accused her of stealing a necklace. And she had been meek and quiet and done nothing. But she had come far since that night. She had learned that you must fight for what you want. Life was a battle-field....

Her eyes were darker than Barbara's as she spoke again.

NEXT: Sue argues with Barbara.

Smart and Simple

2984

A stunning day dress with loads of charm. Its smart simplicity is so satisfying and becoming.

A navy blue flat crepe made the original. A sparkling enamel sapphire shade buckle fastened the narrow belt at the natural waistline. And as you no doubt know navy blue promises to be very smart all through the season.

The pretty cowl drape of the slim bodice is very kind for it disguises breadth just beautifully. The curved seaming of the skirt too has a very narrowing effect on the hips.

Style No. 2984 may be had in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 requires 3 1/2 yards of 39-inch material.

Printed flat crepe silk is also very good for this model.

Crepe woolsens in plain or pattern will also make up charmingly.

Our large Fashion Book shows the latest Paris has to offer in clothes for the matron, the stout, the miss and the children.

Also a series of dressmaking articles. It is a book that will save you money.

Be sure to fill in the size of the pattern. Send stamps or coin (coin preferred).

Price of book 10 cents.
Price of pattern 15 cents.

ter keep right on fighting to keep on your own feet, so that some day you may at least know peace of mind.

On the other hand if you truly love the man, you have a fair chance of making a success of this second trial. You're both wiser and sadder, and probably more tolerant. You're both anxious for domestic comfort and a sense of security again. And each loving the other a little will strive to make the thing a success.

Figure out your true feelings for your husband, and then decide whether or not to go back to him. The whole success of the undertaking depends on the spirit in which you go back, and you can make or break things according to the way you act, since it is you who must forgive the most and love the most.

NEELLY: Don't blame Sheila. She's a perfectly normal girl who wants to have a good time. There is no reason why she shouldn't accept such invitations as come her way. And Jack is interested in her, obviously. Therefore why shouldn't she respond, if she feels attracted?

Be reasonable. You weren't engaged to the elusive Jack. You were his favorite for one season, and you began to think the emotion he felt was a matter of some permanency, and after all you were wrong. Well Jack happens to be like that, and if Sheila didn't accept his invitations, someone else would, which wouldn't make you feel any better.

You ought to be generous to the other girl particularly when she is far less popular than yourself and no doubt needs invitations more than you do.

Your husband, and those who back him up will inevitably point to your friendship with another man as a sign of distinct wickedness, and you'll find it difficult to convince a gossip-loving world that your relationship was quite innocent.

Far better to seek your freedom first, under the present circumstances. You mustn't entangle your child in an ugly legal battle. And you mustn't do anything which would rob him of the right sort of home atmosphere. If his father is not fit to keep him and help him, then it must be you who has him always. And to that end, you must make many sacrifices.

A LONESOME WIFE: If you're going back to your husband simply because you want a home and a man about the house you're making a mistake.

The things which separated you before will come between you again. You'll be up against the same old brick wall, and it won't be so easy to get away from him the next time, now that you've practically admitted defeat with your new freedom. Bet-

MRS. CROCKETT REELECTED AS STATE REGENT

Other Officers of C. D. A. Elected as Annual Convention Closes

Menasha—With nearly 300 local and visiting members in attendance, the state convention of Catholic Daughters of America closed with a banquet meeting in St. Mary high school auditorium Sunday evening.

The banquet program opened with invocation by the Rev. John Hummel, pastor of St. Mary's church, Menasha. An address of welcome by the Rev. G. A. Clifford, pastor of St. Patrick's church, Appleton, and chairman of the house of prayer, preceded an address on the Catholic College Man by the Rev. W. L. Kenning of St. Mary's College, Winona, Minn. The Rev. Kenning outlined the advantages of higher education, secured in conjunction with religious guidance, and urged work by the laity in securing additional Catholic colleges.

Our National Organization was outlined by Mrs. Anna M. Baxter of Dubuque, Iowa, national director. Mrs. Baxter revealed the growth of the organization, the scope of its work, and the varied programs being carried under the direction of local councils throughout the country.

Mrs. Marguerite Dana of Fond du Lac entertained with readings, and the Rev. J. J. Maguire, state chaplain, gave the closing prayer.

Explains League. In explaining the work of the Converts' League, the Rev. Francis P. Lyons, C. S. P. of Chicago, stressed the advantage of work by the laity in clarifying and spreading the faith. The Rev. Lyons, who has held pastorates in Rome and at Washington, D. C. and is identified with national activity of the converts' league, lauded the Catholic Daughters for their work in religious charity and guidance, and urged continuation of their endeavors in that direction.

The Hon. M. K. Reilly, congressman from the sixth district, spoke on economic conditions throughout the country, and explained the need of organized effort to relieve depression hardships. Mrs. Emily Hawley, grand regent of the hostess council, closed the banquet program with a farewell to converts and visitors.

Mrs. E. E. Crockett, state regent, was banquet toastmaster and the St. Mary high school band, under the direction of the Rev. J. Becker, entertained. Albert E. Isaac of Fond du Lac, sang a number of selections.

Opens Saturday. The convention opened Saturday afternoon with registration at Hotel Menasha, followed by a sight seeing tour through the city. Under the direction of a committee, headed by Mrs. Joseph Levandowski and Miss Margaret McMahon, delegates drove through both cities, viewing business districts, churches, schools, parks, the North Shore Country club, and other outstanding places of interest.

Mayor N. G. Remmel of Menasha and Mayor George Sande of Neenah welcomed convention visitors during a tea and reception at the Valley Inn, following the sightseeing tour. Mrs. Anna M. Baxter, National director, expressed the welcome of the national organization. Mrs. E. Crockett of Menasha, state regent, gave the state welcome, and Mrs. Emily Hawley, expressed the greetings of the hostess council. Miss Marie Alfieri of Appleton and Edward Dicks of Menasha, entertained with a musical program. The reception was directed by Mrs. F. M. Corry, who served in the absence of Mrs. T. E. McGilgan, confined to her home Saturday because of illness.

Celebrate High Mass. The convention opened formally at St. Patrick's church Sunday morning when high mass was given under the direction of the Rev. J. J. Maguire, Neenah, state chaplain. More than 200 Catholic Daughters received communion.

Sister M. Carmilla of the Edgewood Junior College at Madison, spoke on religious vacation schools, during the breakfast session at Hotel Menasha; outlining the advantages and need of religious educational institutions operating during the summer. The Rev. G. A. Clifford, chaplain of the local council, welcomed visitors, and Mrs. Bertha Clifford presented a number of vocal selections. Miss Mabel Burke of Appleton, state chairman of the educational committee, thanked Sister Carmilla for her talk, and presented her with a check for further work in the field.

Regent Re-elected. Mrs. E. E. Crockett of Menasha was re-elected state regent during the convention sessions opening at the Memorial building at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. Miss Mabel Burke of Appleton was re-elected state regent; Miss Adella Hiltgen of Neenah, secretary; Mrs. Emma Kenning of Janesville, treasurer; and Mrs. Mattie Love of Wisconsin Rapids, state monitor.

Miss Burke and Mrs. Agnes Luby of Janesville were named delegates to the national convention at Atlantic City, July 7 to 10, and Mrs. Mayne Donahoe of Cuba City and Mrs. Adella Hiltgen were selected as alternates. Mrs. Alberta Carrigan is alternate to Mrs. S. E. Crockett.

In a series of committee reports, Miss Burke spoke on religious vacation school work, and Miss Adella Hiltgen of Sheboygan discussed reports, including a report on the Junior activity sponsored by the Sheboygan court, relative to religious study by adolescents and in which more than 300 students are registered.

Miss Ada Basing of Berlin reported on Converts' League work and Mrs. Alberta Carrigan of Milwaukee on Study club acting. Mrs. Carrigan also acted as parliamentarian.

CHANGES ASKED IN REPORTS ON CHURCH CODES

Episcopal Group Favors New Canon Covering Divorce, Remarriage

The church reaffirmed its position that "nothing but adultery or such wilful desertion as can in no way be remedied by the church or civil magistrate is cause of dissolving the bond of matrimony."

The Presbyterian report will be submitted to the general assembly of the church in Pittsburgh May 25. The Episcopalian revision will be presented to the general convention in Denver Sept. 16.

"ACCEPT" BIRTH CONTROL. Milwaukee—(AP)—Birth control is "accepted" without approval of disapproval in a report drawn up and approved by the Presbyterian special commission on marriage. It will be presented to the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in Pittsburgh May 25 to June 3. It was revised by the Rev. Howard Agnew Johnston, pastor of the Immanuel church here and a member of the commission.

The report, among a series of other proposals, advocates physician's certificates for both marrying parties; urges sex education; condemns divorce with the idea of re-marriage, and reiterates the church's stand that divorce shall be granted solely on grounds of desertion or adultery.

The birth control section of the report says: "When contraception is adopted, it should only be in fidelity to the highest spiritual ideals of the Christian home."

"Earnest Christian people are asking for the church's guidance on the subject of birth control. This subject demands attention today as never before. Economic conditions and a worthy standard of living clearly make it wrong to bring children into the world without adequate provision for their nurture and proper consideration for the health of the mother."

"The Christian conception of sex clothes the relationship between the husband and wife with spiritual significance, sanctifying marriage as a divine institution. Moral control is the basis essential to a worthy experience of a marriage relation."

"Two methods are possible in securing birth control. The first is continence. The second is the use of contraceptives. When this method is adopted in seeking the worthy objectives stated above, it should be in fidelity to the highest spiritual ideals of the Christian home."

The report warns that "in expressing judgment on this subject, the church in no sense modifies its condemnation of sex relations outside of marriage."

Dr. Johnston, head of the division of leaders drafting the marriage, divorce and remarriage sections of the report, commented: "My view of this report is that we are not directly approving birth limitations. We are merely heeding the signs of the times and accepting it without approval or disapproval. We know that people are practicing birth control and are likely to continue doing so. We are assuming a helpful attitude on contraception."

The report is the third recent birth control proposition to be discussed recently by major church organizations. A month ago a committee of the Federal Council of Churches, representing 27 Protestant denominations, approved "careful and restrained use of contraceptives." The Anglican Lambeth conference announced support of birth control measures last year.

GOOD RETAIL BUSINESS IN BADGER CITIES

Appleton Stood Tenth in List, Although Thirtieth in Population

By HUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent

Washington—The 27 cities of more than 10,000 population in Wisconsin did a retail trade amounting to more than $761,000,000 during the last census year, nearly half of which was in Milwaukee.

While in general the amount of the retail trade was in proportion to the population, there was considerable noticeable variation in the rank of the cities as to the amount of their retail trade compared with their population rank. The first four cities in population—Milwaukee, Madison, Racine, and Kenosha—were likewise the first four, in the same order, in the amount of their retail trade as shown by the 1920 distribution census. The figures are for total business done in 1929.

But there the parallel stops. La Crosse, which was sixth in population, was fifth in retail trade, out-ranking in business the next city above her, Oshkosh, which was fifth in population but eighth in retail trade. Sheboygan was sixth in both population and retail trade.

Green Bay was seventh in retail trade, but only eighth in population. Superior was ninth in both population and retail trade.

Appleton is Tenth. Appleton was tenth in retail business, although thirteenth in population. Fond du Lac was eleventh in both population and retail trade. Eau Claire was twelfth in both population and the amount of her retail business.

Wausau was thirteenth in retail trade, but fourteenth in population. West Allis was 14th in retail trade, although she was tenth in population.

Janesville was 15th in retail trade, although 17th in population, outstripping the larger cities of Beloit and Manitowish in the money paid to retail merchants.

Beloit was 16th in retail trade, but 15th in population, and Manitowish was 17th in retail trade although 16th in population. Waukesha was 18th in retail trade, but 19th in population, doing more business than the larger city of Wauwatosa, which was 21st in retail trade and 18th in population.

Watertown was 19th on both trade and population. Stevens Point, although 21st in population, was 20th in retail trade, her stores doing a bigger business than those of the larger city of Marinette, which was 20th in population but 22nd in retail trade.

Ashland was 23rd in retail trade, although only 25th in population, her retail business exceeding that of the larger cities of South Milwaukee, which was 23rd in population but 25th in trade and Cudahy, which was 24th in population, but 26th in retail trade.

Two Rivers, which was the very last of the 27 cities of more than 10,000 population, was 24th in retail trade, doing a bigger business than the larger cities of South Milwaukee, Cudahy, and Shorewood.

Of course, the farther away a city is from a larger city or a city of comparable size, the larger the trade territory in the villages and the country it has to draw from. Thus per capita figures on retail trade and comparisons of the retail business with the population are not altogether any index of the freedom with which the citizens spend their money with their retail merchants. For example, larger trade territories around Ashland, Green Bay, and La Crosse may account for their jumping ahead of larger cities in trade, while the fact that Oshkosh has a lake on one side and Appleton and Fond du Lac on two other sides narrows her trade territory.

When Ruel Small comes back to the House of Representatives in December with his notebook and his pen—a very special extra kind of pen that shorthand reporters of debates take down the words of any man who was there when he began to record House debates 31 years ago.

Last year there was one, who was there when Ruel Small went on the job. That was the late Henry Allen Cooper of Racine. Small took down his share of the words Henry Allen Cooper spoke in the famous battles he waged on the floor in the last of the nineteenth century and the first of the twentieth, for the stenographers, of course, work in short shifts.

Reminders of Rep. Cooper's long service constantly arise. The other day his widow, grief-stricken but keeping up her job, went to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis with a friend. An officer attached to the academy was looking after the wants of Mrs. Cooper and her friend, not knowing really who they were. Mrs. Cooper asked to see the young men in Annapolis whom her husband appointed. The officer told her that during that time midshipmen were not permitted to see visitors, but asked who she was. Mrs. Cooper told him her name.

"Are you Henry Allen Cooper's widow?" the officer asked, and she told him she was. He threw his arms around her, and perhaps it would not disgrace the Navy to tell that he, too, wept, as he said to her. "He appointed me to Annapolis 25 years ago."

Messages have come from all over the world to Mrs. Cooper, and now, under the care of a physician as she is, she is answering them all. She expects to be here until the last of May, and then she is returning to Racine, where she and her late husband's sister are planning to go through his papers and the comments he wrote on nearly every day of his 36 years in Congress. So per-

Lists Construction. Col. Washington Society Gives Welcome To National D. A. R.

BY DOROTHEA J. LEWIS
(Post-Crescent's Washington Society Editor)

Washington—Daughters of the American Revolution swept in upon the National capital last week and quite won the city and the day. The week of their Fortieth Continental congress was most emphatically D. A. R. Week in Washington.

"Welcome D. A. R." shouted the store windows in letters almost a foot high. And the bright D. A. R. badges flaunted themselves everywhere, flying frequently in sight-seeing busses and so many times fluttering down by the river among the cherry blossoms until Wednesday's tornado-like wind tripped the trees of their blossoms.

The Wisconsin delegation to the Congress, led by Mrs. James Franklin Trotman of Milwaukee, Wisconsin's State Regent, lunched together Tuesday at the Carlton Hotel. The luncheon committee consisted of Mrs. George Averill and Mrs. Howard Lawton.

Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau, honorary president general, and Mrs. John C. Schaefer, wife of Rep. Schaefer of Milwaukee, were among the guests, as were also the pages from Wisconsin.

Mrs. George Barnett, widow of General Barnett of Boscebel, of the World War Commandant of the Marine Corps, was in charge of invitations at the Congress and was one of the busiest workers in Constitution Hall.

Senator Robert M. La Follette Jr. of Madison had a very "talkative week." Wednesday evening he was one of two speakers at Georgetown University's Varsity G. dinner. Thursday he went to Boston and spoke there, then went to New York where he spoke twice on Sunday, once in New York and once in Brooklyn. Mrs. La Follette Jr. journeyed to New York and visited friends there until the Senator joined her at the end of the week.

President and Mrs. Glenn Frank of the University of Wisconsin were in Washington Tuesday and Wednesday, and seemed to spend most of their time with the President and Mrs. Hoover.

One of the exciting events of the week was the landing—and a beautiful landing it was—of the wind-mill-like autogyro on the smooth, green White House lawn on Wednesday.

There, seeing history made, was President Hoover, Orville Wright, and almost every newspaperman or woman in the city was there. Up on the portico, was Mrs. Hoover keeping Herbert Hoover III, in his green suit, and little Peggy Ann in her pink dress, very safe in case the queer plane might dip too low.

Down on the lawn, gasping at the one soft little bump the plane took as it came almost vertically down, was Robert Allen, former Wisconsin newspaperman, who clutched a forgotten luncheon half-pint of strawberry ice-cream in one hand. There too was Miss Flora J. formerly of Mt. Hope, Wis., who ran just a bit when the autogyro seemed about to land right atop.

Mrs. William Kittle, formerly of Madison, returned to Washington Monday after 7 weeks absence in Minneapolis, with here sick mother who is now much better, and "one glorious week in Madison."

Former Rep. and Mrs. Edward E. Browne of Waupaca attended the entertainment and meeting of the Society of Descendants of the Mayflower at the Mayflower Hotel Tuesday.

Mrs. John Henry Dwight, formerly of Racine, and Mrs. Arthur MacArthur, Jr., sister-in-law of the Chief of Staff, General Douglas MacArthur, entertained at luncheon at the National Woman's Country Club Monday before a vocal recital given in costume by Mrs. Josephine Forsythe-Myers.

One of her most interesting groups consisted of ancient Irish folk songs, for which she accompanied herself on an Irish harp.

Mrs. Dwight entertained a party of 10, and Mrs. MacArthur, 17.

Dr. William F. Notz, formerly of Watertown and now Dean of the School of Foreign Service at Georgetown University, attended the session of the American Academy of Political and Social Science in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Donald R. Holt of Oconto has been spending some time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. Worthington Dorsey.

The American University's Women's Guild, of which Mrs. P. M. Anderson, formerly of Augusta and Madison, Wis., is president, held a silver tea last week. Mrs. Delos O. Kinsman, wife of Dr. Kinsman formerly of Appleton, was in charge of arrangements.

Tuesday evening, Rep. George J. Schneider of Appleton and Dr. and Mrs. Kinsman dined together.

Girl Scout Shirley Schaefer, young daughter of Rep. and Mrs. John C. Schaefer of Milwaukee, was one of the six very thrilled girl scouts, who cooked and served a model meal to the President and Mrs. Hoover on Thursday.

General Douglas MacArthur heads the list of members of the general committee, arranging for "Hunt Ball week" in Washington in May.

There will be the National Capital Horse Show and the glamorous hunt ball with its hunt breakfast served at midnight on May 12. Waips from various hunt teams of Virginia and Maryland will lead in the hunting scene and the young folk attending will wear hunting togs.

Mrs. Thomas Patten Cheesborough, Jr., of Bronxville, N. Y., and Miss Eleanor Davies, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Davies, formerly of Madison, had an exciting time on the West Coast this last week, when they acted as bridesmaids at the wedding of Miss Florence Evelyn Hamburger and Frederick Conner Bryan in Los Angeles on Thursday.

Thomas Patten Cheesborough, Jr., also took part in the ceremony as one of the ushers for the groom.

While fighting a fire in her new home at Shipdam, England, the morning after her wedding, the clothes of Mrs. Winifred Skipper caught fire, causing fatal burns.

Merchants of Havana, Cuba, are complaining that a large part of the throng which visited there during the winter slept and took most of their meals on board ship.

Every CAMEL Package Now a Tiny Humidor

Switch over for just one day then quit Camels, if you can

All regular Camel smokers have noticed a significant change in the Camel package. Now their favorite cigarettes come air-sealed in moisture-proof Cellophane.

An improvement in appearance, true, but the reason for this change that cost $2,000,000 was not mere looks.

It was done to protect the fine mild quality of Camels until they reach the smoker.

The best tobacco loses much of its rich flavor and aroma when its natural moisture content is lost through scorching or evaporation.

That's why we have made every Camel package a tiny humidor—so that you may always be sure of getting Camels in fresh mild condition.

Camels are wrapped only in moisture-proof Cellophane with an air-seal.

Try a package today and revel in the luxury of a really fresh cigarette.

Factory-fresh Camels are air-sealed in the new Sanitary Package which keeps the dust and germs out and keeps the flavor in.

It is peppery dust and harsh dry tobacco that are unkind to a smoker's throat.

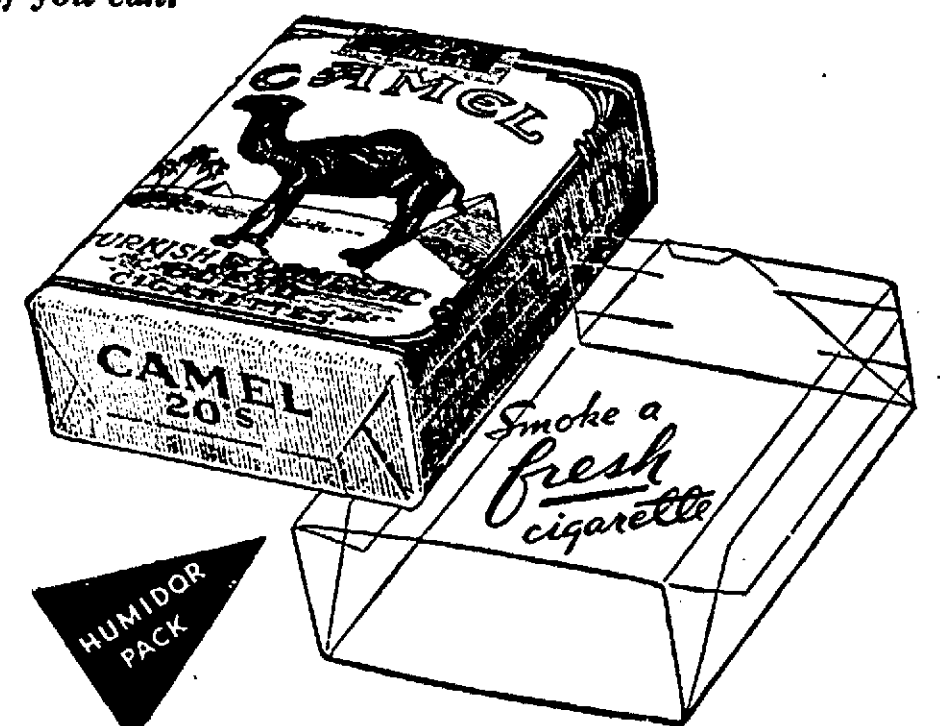

We vacuum-clean away the dust and keep the natural moisture in by the exclusive Humidor Pack.

Make the switch to Camels for just one day, then leave them—if you can.

It is the mark of a considerate hostess, by means of the Humidor Pack, to "Serve a fresh cigarette." Buy Camels by the carton—this cigarette will remain fresh in your home and office.

Two Mental "Boners" Lose Two Games For New York Yankees

HEINE MEINE IN RARE FORM; BUCS BEAT CARDINALS

Hornsby Stars at Bat as Cubs Down Cincinnati Reds, 3 to 1

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

As if it wasn't bad enough to lose three of his best outfielders, including Babe Ruth, within a week's time, something even worse has arisen to make Joe McCarthy's life a little more difficult.

McCarthy's premature grey. His New York Yankees have taken to lapsing mentally in the pinches, and to say that McCarthy is perturbed is putting it lightly.

As the outright result of two rarely uninteresting games over the week end, the Yankees lost the same number of ball games and dropped out of first place in the American league, a position they had held without a break since opening day. The Cleveland Indians, who had taken over the top spot without a struggle.

McCarthy's boys pulled the first one Saturday, when Chapman became confused on where to toss the ball at a vital point in the tenth inning and didn't make up his mind until after the Red Sox had scored the winning run.

Here's a Boner

"But that was scarcely anything compared to the rare skit given by Lou Gehrig and Lyn Lary yesterday at Washington. Lary was on base when Lou smote one far into the center pavilion. Lary, rounding third, looked back in time to see the ball bounce back into a fielder's hands, thought it had been caught for the third out and headed for the dugout. Before they could steer him back on the base path, Gehrig passed by with a fine burst of speed and crossed the plate. There went two runs, the exact margin by which the Senators eventually won, 9 to 7. Chapman later hit one into the stands with a fellow Yankee on base and the whole team turned out to escort them safely past the plate. Carl Fischer relieved Morarty in the third to get credit for the victory, striking out ten batters during his tenure. The Yankees used a quartet, including George Piggars, who made his first appearance of the year.

Dusty Cooke Hurt
Dusty Cooke of the New York hospital squad when he fell going after Bluege's homer in the third inning. He will be out at least two weeks, physicians said, the result of a displaced collar bone. Myrl Hoag is the third Yankee outfielder on the shelf.

The day's only other American league engagement, Detroit, scored its fourth straight victory at the expense of Chicago, 8 to 4.

Sorrell and Sullivan allowed the White Sox only three hits, while the Tigers mauled three Chicago curvers for 11, including Stone's fifth home run of the year.

Two sparkling mound performances flanked a curious card in the National league. Heine Meine gave only four hits in pitching Pittsburgh to a 1 to 4 triumph over St. Louis. It was the season's second defeat for the champion Cardinals and their first shutout. Two walks, a stolen base and an outfield fly, gave the Pirates their only run off Bill Hallahan.

Charley Root, veteran Chicago right-hander, started, finished and won his third straight game in downing Cincinnati, 3 to 1. Root has permitted only four runs in 27 innings. Rogers Hornsby again led his team's offense with three hits in five trips.

Rain spoiled the day's festivities at Brooklyn, New York, Boston and Cleveland.

THE BAGE GOES HOME

New York (AP)—The "great man" of baseball—Babe Ruth—left home last Tuesday full of vigor, with three home runs to his credit and hopes of producing a new record. He came home last night in a wheel chair.

The Babe was discharged from the hospital in Boston yesterday full of optimism about getting back into the game. He wanted to get a crack at the Athletics this week, he said. But by the time he had completed the five hour ride to New York, the predictions of the physician who attended him, Dr. Francis C. Newton, that the Babe would be out of action two weeks appeared more fully justified. He appeared tired from the journey and much of his usual "babe" was missing. He felt "fine" except for his injured leg, he said, but he did not protest when Mrs. Ruth answered "two weeks" to all

1931 An Unusual Season In A. L. Connie Mack Says

NEW YORK (AP)—"My team is not batting," said Connie Mack as the Athletics were leaving New York after losing the first series to the Yankees.

"Think that is the big reason for not winning?"

"Yes, with us. We've been getting good enough pitching to win, take it all in a lump. I've been tickled a lot because Waiberg has come through. I was afraid in Florida that he might have a bad year as his arm wasn't what he wanted it to be. I believe in permitting a pitcher to be the judge of his own arm. Some say that if you let a pitcher define his condition he will soldier on you. I

APPLETON DUO SECOND IN NET BALL DOUBLES

The volleyball doubles team of Coe and Abraham of Oshkosh won the doubles championship in a tourney held here Saturday at the Y. M. C. A. Jensen and Landis of Appleton were second and Jones and Witzel of Oshkosh took third honors.

Twelve teams were entered in the meet, the duos being from Appleton, Oshkosh, Neenah and Kaukauna. Games were played at the Y. M. C. A. and Roosevelt Junior high school gyms.

The Appleton combination of Jensen and Landis won honors in the upper bracket, and the Coe and Abraham team in the lower. When they met the Oshkosh team won 15-2 and 15-9. The Appleton men then beat Jones and Witzel of Oshkosh and again met Coe and Abraham losing 15-6 and 15-3.

Yesterday's Stars

Carl Fischer, Senators—Fanned ten Yankees in Washington's 9 to 7 triumph over Yankees.

Jonathan Stone, Tigers—Hit fifth home run of season in seventh inning to break tie as Detroit defeated White Sox 8-4.

Rogers Hornsby, Cubs—Made three hits in five times up to help Cubs beat Cincinnati 3 to 1.

Henry Meine, Pirates—Shut out Cardinals with four hits to win 1 to 0.

COLD POSTPONES MERCHANT-FUEL GAME

Appleton Merchants and the Noffke Fuels, two Appleton ball teams, one in the C. The boys will try to get in several heavy workouts this week, leagues in which the teams are entered opening next Sunday.

questions about how long he would be out of the game.

One of the first things the Babe heard after his arrival was that his substitute, Dusty Cooke, had been injured at Washington.

He commented, "good night."

never had one do that. The boys have always been square with me."

"Has Washington surprised you?"

"Not a bit. In the spring of 1930 they took us into camp pretty regularly. I'll tell you that I wouldn't have been surprised if they had beaten us worse than they did. When we did win now and then I thought we were lucky. The fact was that the Senators had a mighty good ball team in 1930 and if they hadn't gone glimmering because of injuries to their players they would have taken us right down to the wire with them."

"Do you think they are as strong this year?"

"Yes, the team wasn't changed any. That is, it wasn't made over for this season. If that team could play well in 1930, why shouldn't it play as well this year, and perhaps a little better? You see when ball players go as far as the Senators did last year and, in losing out in the pennant race, are sure they are the victims of hard luck more than they did, playing, they are going to be a bad team to lick the following year because their confidence in themselves is just as strong as ever. When a team gets into its head that it can win, it won't give up any fight until its players are so badly injured as to have lost all hopes of success."

"What is Washington's strong suit?"

"Pitching and good fielding. Isn't that the strong suit of the Athletics?"

"Yeah. Only I wanted to have more 'suit' to our record this year. I wanted good batting and a heap of it."

"Why more this year than last year?"

"Last year is over and we had good batting when we needed it. If we had been without it probably we wouldn't have won. This year I figure there is more good pitching to be solved and the only way to put good pitchers on the shelf is to have the best of batting against them. That is why I specially wanted good batting. I wanted to have it start early and keep up right along. If the boys get going early they will get so interested in themselves that they will bat hard all year. Good batters usually strike their gait about May 15, maybe between May 15 and June 1. Ordinarily that is good enough to win a pennant, if you happen to have a team that is pennant minded."

"Ordinarily, I said. But listen—"

the veteran manager of the world's champion Athletics paused. "This is no ordinary season. I've found that out already."

VARSITY TRACK MEN BEAT HIGH SCHOOL AND FROSH IN MEET

Orange Shows Well; Cavert Wins 100, Hecker 440, Half Mile

LAWRENCE college varsity track team won the triangular meet with the Freshmen and Appleton high school, staged at George A. Whiting athletic field Saturday afternoon. The varsity scored 49 points, the Highs were second with 25 and the Frosh trailed with 22. Because of the cold, track events were staged out of doors and most of the field events indoors.

The meet brought out the fact that the Vike varsity will not get very far in competition this season and after three consecutive Big Four championships, Coach Arthur C. Denney will have to let some one else take the honors next month at Ripon.

It also was brought out that Coach Joseph Shields of the Highs is going to have a fast squad that may cop honors at the valley conference meet here June 6. Cavert topped the 100 yard dash for the Highs Saturday and ran second in the 220. His time for the century was 13.3 and for the second place in the 220, it was 24 even.

Hecker, a quarter and half mile runner also created a sensation when he pounded around the track with even, easy strides and beat Roemer of Lawrence in the quarter and Reeve of the Frosh squad in the half mile.

Results of the various events follow:

100 Yard dash—Cavert (H), Fischl, 12.0; Elckmeyer (V), 13.1.

220 Yard dash—Elckmeyer (V), Cavert (H), Dobbs (F). Time: 23.4.

440 Yard dash—Hecker (H), Roemer (V), Keth (V). Time: 55.5.

880 Yard dash—Vallancourt (F), Fahres (F), Ball (F). 44 feet 7 in.

1100 Yard dash—Elckmeyer (V), Cavert (H), Dobbs (F). Time: 23.4.

220 Yard dash—Schmidt (V), Foote (F) and Neller (H) tied for second, Dodge (V). 10 feet 9 inches.

Half mile—Hecker (H), Reeve (F), Verrier (H). Time, 2:12.6.

1 mile—Weld (V). Time: 27.3.

2 miles—Pfeiffer (V), Hase (V), Weber (H). 109 feet.

High jump—Foote (F), B. Calhoun (F), Marston (V). 5 feet 8 inches.

Broad jump—Elckmeyer (V), Marston (V) and Frank (H) tied for second, B. Calhoun (F). 20 feet 1 inch.

FORDS AGAIN LOSE TO WAUPACA NINE

August Brandt Fords, the Waupaca base ball club and a half dozen more umpires braved the cold breeze and snowflakes Sunday afternoon and staged a ball game at Brandt park. It was another practice tilt and Waupaca again copped the decision, the score being 7 and 6. A few fans were on hand to watch proceedings.

Art Behr tossed for the Fords and served little more than straight balls, slow and fast. He was relieved by Dats Crowe in the ninth. For Waupaca, Jerry Davis showed himself a good Eskimo and went the entire route. Murphy caught for Appleton and Nelson for Waupaca.

Appleton squad suffered one casualty during the afternoon, Ed die Verbrick injuring his trick knee while performing at short and being forced to leave the game. He was replaced by Pat Kelly, a new comer who had been playing third until the jinx caught up with Verbrick.

George Welsberger, Menasha, who will play short when the valley season opens was on hand but requested he not be forced to take part in the game.

President Clarence Batz of the Fox River Valley League had a couple four-five umpires on hand at the game and gave all of them a chance to call balls and strikes. Umpires also need practice games, so the league prexy believes.

FORESTER BOWLERS TO RECEIVE 1931 PRIZES

Bowling prizes won by Foresters in their league and at the Fox River Valley Foresters' tournament will be awarded at the regular meeting of Foresters at the Catholic home beginning at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening. A smoker and lunch will follow awarding of the bowling prizes.

K. C. BOWLERS WILL HOLD ANNUAL BANQUET

Knights of Columbus bowlers will hold their annual bowling banquet Wednesday evening at Hotel Northland.

The banquet was postponed because of the Elk bowling banquet tonight. Prizes won by K. C. bowlers at the state tournament and in local league bowling will be awarded. The banquet will begin at 6:30.

Lawrence Tennis, Golf Teams Lose At Madison

Paced by Capt. Bob Stewart who turned in a brilliant 75, Coach George Lewis' University of Wisconsin golf team opened its 1931 season Friday by winning every match and swamping Lawrence college, 23 to 1; play was over the course of the Maple Bluff Country club, Madison.

Stewart was two over par on the first time when he put together a 39 but he tightened up on the inside round and covered it in 36, one over par. He played a steady game, scoring one birdie and never exceeding par on any hole by more than one stroke.

Following Stewart came a couple of Madison boys, Walter Stock and Maynard Reiersen, each of whom turned in 76's; James Musser and Frank Murphy had 77's. The other members of the Wisconsin team and their medal scores were Henry Page 88, John Germann 85 and Walter Steel 87.

Most of the Wisconsin golfers won easily, Henry Page's victory of 1 up being the only close brush.

The scoring summary follows, the first named in each case being the Wisconsin golfer and winner:

1. Capt. Stewart defeated Capt. McKenny (L) 6 and 4.

2. Page defeated Hackbert (L) 1 up. Stock defeated Pfeiffer (L) 9 and 7.

3. Reiersen defeated Harwood (L) 8 and 7.

4. Musser defeated Farrish (L) 8 and 7.

5. Germann defeated Trankle (L) 4 and 3.

6. Murphy defeated Roessler (L) 7 and 5.

7. Stringfellow defeated Ritterer (L) 4 and 2.

Winning every match in both singles and doubles and suffering the loss of but one set out of 19, the University of Wisconsin tennis team swamped Lawrence college, 1930 Little Four champions, Saturday afternoon on the intramural field courts at Madison.

WORK MEASURES FOR WOMEN ONLY HIT BY LEADER

Employment Legislation
Should Not Be Based on Sex, Says Mrs. Rotter

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington
Correspondent

Washington — "Pass all the 44-hour laws you want, or 5-day week laws, for men and women alike, but don't try it again for women alone," says Mrs. Max Rotter, Wisconsin chairman of the National Woman's Party.

Mrs. Rotter came to Washington to attend the congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution, who graduated in February from the University of Wisconsin and served as page at the D. A. R. congress. She came straight from lobbying successfully against the bill for a 44-hour week for women only in Wisconsin.

"All labor legislation," Mrs. Rotter said, "should be based on the nature of the work, not on the sex of the worker. There are laws, held constitutional, limiting the hours of work in certain industries, for men and women alike.

"Laws based on sex, advocated frequently under the guise of protecting women, simply throw out of their jobs, or decrease their opportunities for getting jobs, Wisconsin legislators, at least, were frank, in stating that a 44-hour week for women would solve the unemployment problem for Wisconsin men, and that the proposed maternity aid bill would cause employers to prefer men to women. But women must eat, and many can eat only if they work."

Seeks Legislation
Mrs. Rotter pointed out that during periods of unemployment, such as the present, there are movements all over the country to pass legislation discriminating against working women in general and against married working women in particular, in an effort, often not disguised, to throw women out of jobs to make places for men. She cited efforts all over the country, including Wisconsin, to curtail production and thus "solve" the economic ills of the industry; and the numerous intensified efforts made in legislatures to pass labor legislation applying to women only.

The "maternity aid" bill to which she referred would have required employers to pay to any female employee one-third of her salary for six weeks before a child is born and for eight weeks afterwards.

"If this were law," Mrs. Rotter said, "employers would say, 'Oh, we can't be bothered with women. Throw them out, and get men.' Yet there is a market for the labor of every child born. Women should not be made to bear the economic as well as the physical brunt of parenthood, and the employer of the mother should no more be held financially responsible than the employer of the father. All laws designed for the benefit of children should be children's laws or parents' laws, not mothers' laws."

"And, of course, when the hours of women are restricted while those of men are not, employers naturally prefer men. This has been proved to be true wherever such laws have been passed.

"In New York, for example, a law was passed prohibiting women from working at night, for pay, in certain industries, most of them well-paying industries. They did not prohibit women from scrubbing the floors of office-buildings at night because men did not want those jobs. But they prohibited women from working as printers at night, an industry in which the union, consisting of men and women, had won good pay and good hours. They prohibited women from working on the subway selling tickets and making change. They prohibited women from working as pharmacists at night. They prohibited women from working in restaurants at night, when the tips are biggest and the trays are lightest.

"The women printers, the women subway workers, the women pharmacists, being out of jobs, spent their time and their savings going to Albany to get themselves exempted from the law. They have succeeded, except that women printers may not yet work at night in commercial printing plants, although they may work on newspapers at night.

"The waitresses are still going to Albany seeking exemption from the no-night-work law. The last time they appeared before a legislative committee, a man labor leader said, 'If you let women work at night in restaurants, you will throw 5,000 men waiters out of jobs.' He did not seem to think of the 5,000 women who had doubtless been thrown out of work when the law was passed prohibiting them from working, for pay, at night."

"All 'protection' should be based on the nature of the work, Mrs. Rotter concluded, and all employment, public and private, should be based on efficiency on the job, not on sex or marriage.

Search For Clear Picture Brings Triple-Speed Film

Rochester, N. Y. — (P) — Because astronomers wanted better pictures of a peculiar mist of Mars, the movies have a new triple-speed film.

In this instance real stars and screen stars are on a par—in their reaction to light. Abstract old astronomy thus contributes a slanting improvement to movies—particularly, to talkies.

More light has been the perennial need of both movies and astronomy. But the astronomers could not even Imagine in a relative way any method of getting their stars to give more light.

So they said to Dr. C. E. Kenneth Mees, director of research for the Eastman Kodak company:

"Make us a new kind of film, more sensitive to light, so that we can see better with the present starlight."

Mees made a film which is much more impressionable to red and green rays than any hitherto. At the same time it retains all the old sensitiveness to the blues.

As their is plenty of all colors of light streaming from stars, the result for astronomers is film that takes a good black and white image with much less light. It takes the picture in one-third the time previously required. So a star like Mars gets its face recorded before it has had so much time to rotate and distort.

A few technical changes adapted the film to movies. The seemingly white light reflected by silver screen stars is also rich in reds and greens. In fact, there is more red now, since talkies have forced substitution of incandescents for the former "noisy" arc lights.

So the new film records three times as fast as the old; this is to say, is about three times as impressionable. This results in deeper space on the stage for the actors to move without getting out of focus.

It gives more margin between the sound track on the edge of the film and the picture, restoring some of the lost artistic photography.

Best of all from the viewpoint of the human stars, it reduces the glare which has tormented them for so many years.

SEVEN BADGERS ARE AFFECTED BY ORDER

Citizens May Secure Copies by Writing Department at Madison

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
Washington—The recent order of Secretary of War Patrick Jay Hurley ordering the corps of engineers which has been engaged in field and survey work on the proposed Nicaraguan Canal Survey back to this country, affects seven Wisconsin men.

The seven Badgers who have been working out difficult problems, concerning the digging of ditches to carry water so boats laden with merchandise may find shorter paths between oceans, in war-torn and disaster-shocked Nicaragua are Second Lieutenant Stanley J. Horn of Colby; Corporal Edward J. Fricke of Manitowish; Privates Joseph Frank Flawacki, Cudahy; George A. Kluchsky, New London; and Edward W. DeFries, Louis J. Fersch and Joseph J. Mikillia, all of Milwaukee.

The 14 officers and 131 enlisted men in the Nicaraguan battalion were drawn principally from Panama, Fort Humphreys, Va., and Fort Dupont in Delaware. Many of the men will return to their original regiments but plans for the new details of all have not yet been completed.

The Marines will leave Nicaragua on July 16, and come to New York via the Panama Canal on the transport Chateau Thierry.

Floods, jungle beasts and jungle dangers, sweltering sun, earthquakes thousands of irritating insects, bands of guerilla warriors, loneliness and lack of comforts and amusements are just a few of the drawbacks to the romance of the engineering job.

MANY CITY PEOPLE RETURNING TO FARMS
Madison — (P) — Widespread and continued unemployment in industrial centers has induced an unprecedented number of city folks to turn their faces toward Wisconsin farms.

Inquiries about farming possibilities pour into the state department of agriculture offices daily whereas in the past it has been almost impossible to make agriculture of more than a passing interest to city dwellers.

Most of the inquiries are from life-long city residents who know nothing of farming. But visions of a plot of ground, a cow or two and a cottage has inspired them with confidence. They seem willing to stake their inexperience on a change of financial independence as against the factory or business office.

Bid of F. J. Schultz for Plumbing Accepted by Library Board

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Following the survey of the ground adjoining the location of the New London Public library, preparation for construction work of the museum was begun today. Schultz, local plumber, was accepted.

Only one change was made in the contract before its acceptance. This change calls for the use of Bedford stone trim instead of cast stone. The change was made because of the fact that Bedford stone has been used on the library, and it is the wish of the board to keep the two buildings as close in appearance as possible. It also is thought that the accepted trim will prove more enduring.

DENIES CHARGES OF MADISON NEWSPAPER

Madison—(P)—Charges that the Alumni Research Foundation of the University of Wisconsin has brought disrepute to the university by permitting private concerns, to use the Steenbock Vitamin irradiation process in advertisements, are without basis, Dr. Harry L. Russell, director, has announced.

Criticism of the foundation was directed by the Capital Times of Madison after the General Baking company had widely advertised the use of the Steenbock process in the manufacture of their breads. The newspaper charged the foundation with commercializing the university by permitting the advertisement of a product of the school's research departments.

Dr. Russell said the right to use the Steenbock process was granted the General Baking company on a promise that the price of bread would not be increased. Large advertising campaigns have been conducted to bring the new product to the people and as long as the price of the product is not increased the advertising is justified, Dr. Russell said.

The funds received from the "leasing" of the process to private concerns is retained by the university to pay the cost of research. Dr. Harry Steenbock, inventor of the irradiation process, favors research work among the faculty and contends that "most of the faculty are not content with training men and women for work of the future. They want to do part of the solving of problems themselves."

DUNDAS FARMERS PLANTING PEAS AND SUGAR BEETS

Acreage of Peas Expected to Be About Same as Last Year

BY W. F. WINSEY

Dundas—Farmers in this vicinity are planting early canning peas and sugar beets. The acreage of peas will be about the same as last year but would have been much greater this year than last year if the farmers had their own way.

Frank J. Schmidt was planting 10 acres of sugar beets on Wednesday and said that a total of 200 acres of sugar beets would be raised this year in the territory about Dundas. The growers will get $6 per ton for their crops and the crops will cost the growers $20 per acre for sugar beet labor; $2 an acre for house rent; $1.00 per acre for the use of the company's tools; and $2 per acre for seed. "The sugar beet acreage in the Dundas territory shows an increase over that of last year," said Mr. Schmidt.

"Alfalfa and sweet clover are away ahead of the stands of last spring at this time but red clover is a failure," said Mr. Schmidt. He expects to plow up six acres of red clover and to plant a mixture of peas, oats and sweet clover to be used as an emergency hay crop.

Last spring he put an emergency crop of peas, oats and sweet clover in his silo, green, fed it at time when he had no other feed for his cows last summer, and found the silage mixture a better milk producer than corn silage. "It's great stuff," he declared, "and I used the sweet clover in the mixture for pasture throughout last fall." He expects to work up his red clover field, Thursday for planting the mixture.

At the suggestion of the writer Mr. Schmidt may experiment this summer with an acre of soybeans as an emergency hay crop. Soybean hay as a feed for dairy cattle is the equal of alfalfa hay in every particular and yields from two to three tons per acre.

CO-OP STORAGE HOUSE COMPLETES NEW WELL

BY W. F. WINSEY

Neenah—The Fox River Cooperative Storage Co., whose plant is operated by the National Cheese Producers' federation, has completed a drilled well 133 feet deep. The water level is only 22 feet below the surface and the capacity of the well is 60 gallons per minute. The well will supply all the cold water needed in the refrigerators and in all other parts of the plant.

DANCE DARBOY, THURS.

SEEDING HAS BEEN DONE IN SHORT TIME

BY W. F. WINSEY

Farmers have made short work of seeding small grain this spring on account of the unusually favorable conditions of the soil, and fair weather. They are now working their cornfields to kill quack grass and other weeds before planting the seed.

Waiting for the fields to dry, Tuesday, after the rain, most of the farmers were setting fence posts, repairing fences and doing odd jobs about their farms.

Stands of alfalfa, sweet clover, winter wheat, rye and pastures have recovered from the effects of the drought last summer, late fall and winter pasturing, and the dry spring. And now are quite promising. The rain, Monday night, was very invigorating to these crops.

On account of a shortage of other feeds, perhaps, a large proportion of the herds are now out on the permanent and tame pastures where they are doing damage out of all proportion to the feed they are getting. The spring, summer, and fall yields of these pastures would be materially increased by keeping the herds out of them till May 1 at least.

ASSOCIATION SHIPS CARLOAD EACH WEEK

BY W. F. WINSEY

Greenleaf—Since Jan. 1, the Greenleaf Cooperative Livestock Shipping association has been shipping a carload of stock each week. Although trucks are cutting into the business of the cooperative to some extent.

The cooperative ships its livestock to the Equity Co-op Livestock Sales association, Milwaukee. Some local farmers who are not members of the Greenleaf cooperative ship through the cooperative although they pay a slightly larger fee than the members of the equity.

About 50 of the 175 members of the local Equity association do all their shipping through the local cooperative shipping association. Last year this 50 members with the help of non-members loaded and shipped 52 cars of livestock. Shipping day is Monday and Jacob Rose is the shipping manager.

More than 220,000 men will be employed on Italy's public-works projects.

Mad Pursuit

BY JESSIE DOUGLAS FOX

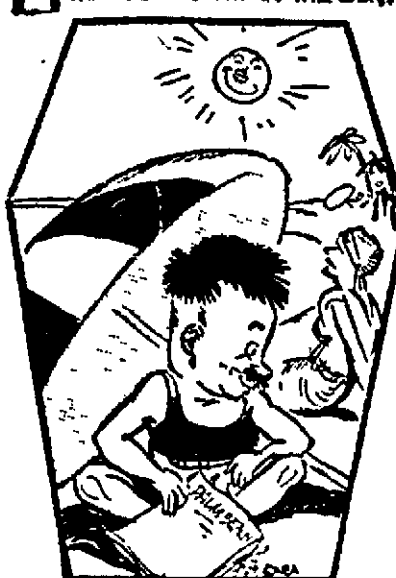

SYNOPSIS: Nora Blake is humiliated when her father, Julian Lake, plans her marriage with Nicholas Thayer to provide for the motherless girl of 20 the home his artistic wanderlust has denied her. But her dislike for Thayer thereby is increased, rising higher when the successful young artist, after a night's stay in the Italian villa lent them by Mrs. Nevers, abruptly plans to leave. Her inappreciable desire that he remain may be due to her knowledge that he is the brother of Jonathan Thayer, of whom a tender memory remains after a chance meeting five years before. To forget Nicholas she goes for a walk, returning hours later to find him in pain from a cut hand received in opening a shutter for her.

Chapter 5
A HAND ON A LIFE
T HE stranger whom Nora had thought about all morning in snatches of pain and delight was gone; in his place was just a boy.
She stood beside Julian and saw that he winced as he unwound the bandage that he had so clumsily wrapped about the thumb with its ugly gash below the thumb.
The hand was now so swollen that even the wrist was puffed. She looked at his flushed and feverish face in alarm.
"Why haven't you seen a doctor?" "I've no use for doctors," he said stubbornly.
She asked, "Where's Julian?" "He's been out all morning." Now she was frankly frightened but she told him to promise her to stay where he was, then as though she were in no hurry she left the room. But once outside the blue gate she flew down the hill.
She kept seeing Nicholas's eyes that had followed her like an owl's they'd had at home, who had looked at her with just such humble suffering. The ugly inflammation of the hand was serious and she must get a doctor at once.
She ran on, remembering she had noticed a doctor's sign not far down the hill. But beneath her fright was a sense of triumph. He had not been able to leave after all. He was still at the villa... and he was going home... perhaps if one wanted a thing enough there was a way of getting it.
If only the doctor would be in! She found him smoking a cigarette in his garden, with an air of infinite leisure, amused at this young thing who came rushing into him, demanding that he should come at once. At once! But as he mounted the hill beside her, refusing to go any faster than his fat legs would carry him easily, he grew interested when he heard the patient was a man, a young man and a painter.
He looked shrewdly at her face, wondering if this man were her lover. These cold impassive English people - for any Anglo-Saxon was English - sometimes had passions, he thought, as he followed her in through the gate in the wall.
Some half hour later he came down from Nicholas Thayer's room to find the doctor would be in!

He turned over and lay on his face. After a while he asked, "Did the doctor say anything to you?" "Nothing," she said, lifting clear eyes to his.
All through the afternoon she stayed with him, changing the poultices. Where was her father all this time? Why had he gone off and forgotten his guest? She had heard her father say that he could not bear pain. He was so sensitively aware of it, he had often explained to her. He suffered more than anyone else could suffer...
When the early dusk had come she lighted the lamp and brought him her father's frayed dressing gown. The doctor had given her a sedative for Nicholas and he drank it with a wry face. He was not easy to care for; he was too impatient. After a while she saw he was asleep. She sat by his bed watching him, remembering the cruel gesture Dr. Madroni had made of cutting off a hand at the wrist. She felt shaky; she had eaten nothing since noon. But she did not like to leave him long enough to go down to the kitchen.
Outside the window she heard the rhythm of eels. In the room was a low mutter. For now the sedative had worn off he rolled and twisted, groaned aloud with a sound that tore straight through her breast.
Perhaps Nicholas was dying. Perhaps this blood poisoning would kill him!
(Copyright, 1931, Jessie Douglas Fox)
A death sentence? Is that Thayer's answer tomorrow as he considers life's futility and struggle?
MARRYING THEM
SHE: When we are married I'll share all your troubles and sorrows. But I have none.
"I said when we are married," answers.

BEARS CONTINUE TO PREDOMINATE IN WALL STREET

Market Action, Poor Earnings Statements Held Responsible

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York—Bearish sentiment again predominated in Wall Street last week. This is partly the result of the action of the market and partly because of a series of poor earnings statements and the prospect of more dividend reductions.

Two factors enter into the trading situation now. One technical position and the other this same dividend and earnings outlook. So far as the technical position is concerned there is no reason to believe that the short interest is unduly large. Borrowing demand for stocks is believed to come in considerable proportions from sellers "against the box." This is the explanation of the fact that brokers' loans last week registered so small a decrease for a period of sharply falling prices for stocks.

Such considerations, however, are of minor importance from a trading standpoint. The market tended to follow very closely published income reports and was very sensitive to rumors about adverse city and state action. A poor statement has almost invariably brought selling into the stock concerned, regardless of the trend in the rest of the list.

In other words, the market has been more concerned with first quarter results than with any long range outlook.

Better Rail Feeling
There is a little better feeling toward the railroad shares based on the fact that the percentage of decline in gross and net in March from the same month of 1930 was much less than was the case in January and February. As time goes on these comparisons are bound to be more favorable and this is influencing some buying, but it is cautious buying which refuses to follow prices up.

The two dividend meetings to which the Street looks forward most anxiously are those of U. S. Steel and of General Motors. Directors of both are scheduled this week and opinion in quarters best informed is that the regular rate will be maintained in each case. That does not, however, prevent the bear operators from questioning action three months hence.

The one class of stocks which is regarded with favor is the gold mining issues. Here is one industry which has no concern over the market for its product, or the price of it. It has no inventory problem and its costs of operation are decreasing along with those of other less fortunate businesses. The lower priced shares in this group attract a following whenever they show signs of activity.

Exactly the opposite situation exists in the oil. They are the class of its short sale and so far the shorts have met no opposition. To a lesser degree the rubbers are in a similar position. Rubber in London last week sold at the lowest on record and both bonds and stocks of rubber companies on this side have been weak.

NEEDY TO GET VACANT LOTS FOR GARDENS

Oconto—(P)—A wartime measure is being invoked here in converting vacant lots into gardens to feed unemployed families.

The Oconto welfare society has appealed to the owners of land for the gratuitous use of the soil so that unemployed and needy persons may plant gardens. Seed, teams and equipment would be furnished by the society.

The Oconto Elks club has already started a garden project among 50 needy boys who will each till a quarter acre plot, keeping all produce after repaying the cost of seed.

27 STUDENTS OF COLLEGE FOUND TO HAVE TUBERCULOSIS

Study by State Association Is Expected to Reveal Many Facts

Stevens Point—(P)—Twenty-seven of the 142 students of Central State Teachers' college of Stevens Point who were examined by physicians of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association as one of the first steps in a study that will continue for three years, were placed in the tuberculosis classification. It was revealed today.

Aside from the discovery of specific cases of tuberculosis in the school, and the general health information disseminated, the W. A. T. A. regards the study as important because through it light may be shed on such problems as: Why is tuberculosis primarily a disease of young people? Why do so many more girls than boys die of tuberculosis in their teens? How can diagnostic methods be improved so that the early presence of tuberculosis among the school and college age groups will be more readily recognized?

The study was begun early in February. Two of the 27 students were found to have active tuberculosis and to be in need of sanatorium treatment. One of these is now in a sanatorium and the other is being treated at home. Five had symptoms and clinic findings indicating that tuberculosis might be present and further study of these cases will be made. Meanwhile, these five persons have modified their school work and extra-curricular activities, one boy dropping athletics.

Twenty of the 27 students were found to have apparently healed tuberculosis lesions. The findings revealed that these had had tuberculosis but that the disease now is apparently arrested.

Selection of the 142 students for examination was made in the following manner: the more than 400 students at the college filled out a seven-page medical-social questionnaire under the direction of the W. A. T. A. staff members which asked for information on nationality, family history, personal history of childhood and of adolescence, previous illness, present health and scholastic activities. Careful study of these questionnaires by the W. A. T. A. staff members revealed that many students needed chest examinations.

Then all students willing to take the tuberculosis test, 395 in number, were given it. A skin test which reveals whether or not tubercle bacilli have ever infected the body. Slightly more than 39 per cent reacted positively.

Stars Vastly Greater Than Sun Revealed To Science

Washington—(P)—Discovery of stars 40,000 times as radiant as the sun and as much as 188,000,000 miles across was announced today before the National Academy of Sciences.

Dr. Harlow Shapley, astronomer and director of the Harvard observatory; told of the huge new stars in describing explorations into distant reaches of space that may shed new light on the "limits" of the universe and on mathematical theories about the nature of space.

He spoke at the opening session of the three-day annual meeting of the National academy, whose members are chosen as a result of outstanding accomplishments in science.

Discovery of the enormous new stars resulted from a census being taken by the Harvard observatory of the thousands of remote galaxies, giant star clusters that contain tens of billions of stars and are thousands of light years across. The galaxies serve as distant "mile posts" in the night sky with the aid of which Dr. Shapley is seeking new knowledge of the universe.

The "boundaries" of space, or at least the boundaries of the space occupied by galaxies, apparently still are far beyond the reach of man's largest telescopes. Dr. Shapley said.

So far as his galaxy census has shown no evidence that telescopes are approaching these boundaries. The greatest distance the largest telescopes have been able to "see" is about 200 million light years. That is the distance light would travel in 200 million years at its speed of approximately 186,000 miles a second.

Dr. Shapley said he had found the more distant galaxies did not seem to be uniformly distributed in space, and this may be significant in relations to mathematical theories concerning the universe. Uniformity of matter, he explained, is assumed by Albert Einstein and other mathematicians, to simplify working out of their calculations dealing with the universe.

Removing radio antennae from city roof tops and sending television and radio programs into homes over telephone wires was urged by Major General George O. Squier, retired, former chief of the United States Army Signal Corps. He said the average telephone is used only 13 minutes out of 24 hours.

Entertainment and radio programs similar to those now sent over the radio but free from advertising could be supplied by telephone companies for a monthly charge, General Squier suggested. Under his plan they would be broadcast from a central station, picked up by central receiving sets in cities, and transmitted over existing telephone wires to homes, which would be equipped with loud speakers and dials for selecting the desired program. Television could be sent the same way, he said.

The system would not interfere with the use of telephones, General Squier explained, and would do away with static and "fading."

$25,000 FOR RAIN
New York—Dr. G. A. I. M. Sykes, self-styled rain maker, is out for business again. He recently communicated with the five boroughs, guaranteeing them rainfall at $25,000 an inch, or a flat guarantee of 12 inches over a period of 90 days for $350,000. Dr. Sykes operated at Belmont Park race track last year, but failed to keep rain away on the day of the big race. He lost $2,000, as a result.

BUDGET SLASH PREFERRED TO HIGHER TAXES

Hoover Administration Is Forced to Make Choice
Between Two Problems

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1931, By Post Pub. Co.

Washington —(CPA)—Faced with the alternative of higher taxes or economy of expenditure, the Hoover administration has decided to cut the budget as the lesser of two evils.

Both policies have their danger points on the eve of a presidential campaign. The spectacle of a Republican administration running at a deficit and increasing the tax burden is as unusual as it is unpleasant to the political leaders here who recognize now that they must face the next campaign on the record of Mr. Hoover. But the economy program is not the federal government will have to cut down on its total payroll at a time when government agencies are urging private industry not to add to general unemployment. The reduction of three hundred and sixteen million dollars to be made in the federal budget is announced now because the new fiscal year begins on July first. The appropriations already have been made by congress so that when the budget cut is effective it will mean an actual saving.

To Influence Congress

Congress, of course, next December, will take up bills appropriating money for fiscal year beginning July 1932, and probably will be influenced to a large extent by the economy drive launched by the president.

A significant thing about Mr. Hoover's announcement is the way he has grouped government expenditures. Four major divisions have been set up allocating the various expenditures of a total budget of approximately four billion one hundred nineteen million. In the first group is revealed the money spent for war purposes—past, present and future. It runs to about two and a half billions of dollars or more than 60 per cent of the total budget. It includes expenses for interest and principal on war debt, pensions, soldiers bonus, hospitalization and national defense.

The second group is administrative and is really the executive department plus some expenses in the legislature and judicial arms of the government, making a total of only about three hundred and seventy-nine million dollars.

In the third group are all the general economic and social welfare items of the federal government, revealing expenses for cooperation with industry and agriculture and the promotion of domestic and foreign trade including also public buildings and making a total of about nine hundred and thirty-five million.

In the last group are the financial transactions such as tax refunds, war claims, trust funds and other

Woman Honored

Recognizing the political equality of women with men, the Spanish republic announces that Victoria Kent, above, attorney who defended civilian leaders of the December revolution, will be the new director of prisons. She was the first woman to plead before the military court and she has always been in sympathy with a Republican form of government. It is the first time in the history of Spain a woman has held an administrative position.

BUSINESS SESSIONS CONCLUDED BY D. A. R.

Washington —(A)—Daughters of the American Revolution finished all business of their 40th annual congress Saturday amid harmony.

Mrs. Lowell F. Hobart, president general, expressed gratification after the last business session, that not only had anti-Communism and better national defense been "more firmly established in the foreground of the program," but that internal harmony had pervaded the meeting.

Mrs. Hobart said it appeared Mrs. Edith Magna of Holyoke, Mass., would be the sole candidate to succeed to the highest office.

The approximately 4,000 delegates planned a brief ceremony later today to confirm new vice presidents general.

Items amounting to two hundred and fifty-seven million.

Thus it will be seen that most of the taxpayers' money goes directly or indirectly for war. The necessity of cutting the budget by three hundred and sixteen millions shows how difficult it is to reduce any of the items in group one because the war expenditures are more or less fixed. It is in the field of discretionary appropriation in the smaller area of administrative work that the economies will have to be effected.

ADVISE INVESTOR TO TAKE HIS LOSS WHEN NECESSARY

Successful Speculator Takes
His Losses or He Doesn't Survive

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES

(Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press)

New York — Every investment list contains securities the market price of which is lower than the purchase price. That statement is true even in times of great prosperity and of rising markets. It is even more true today, and it is true not alone of individual investors but of banks, insurance companies, and investment trusts.

The question then arises as to what to do with these securities. Shall they be sold, the loss accepted and the proceeds reinvested or shall they be held until there is market recovery? The answer to this question is in no way dependent upon the amount of the paper loss. Time and again I have been asked for an opinion on a stock or a bond, the price of which has depreciated since it was acquired and always with the request went information as to the price that the investor had originally paid. When I say that it makes no difference what was paid in the first place or that it makes no difference what the loss would be if sold the investor usually does not understand.

It does make a difference to the individual but it does not help in solution of the problem. There is only one point to be settled and that is whether it would be better to sell and substitute some other security with a better outlook or to hold on, and in debating that point the amount of the loss is not pertinent. Refusal to accept this view may mean a much greater loss, perhaps disaster.

The speculator is wiser, that is if he is a successful speculator, than the investor. He takes losses; otherwise, he does not survive. In only one respect is the investor better off, and that is in that he can take time to consider, a privilege often denied to a speculator. In any event, however, if, with all the facts available at hand, the indications are that the position of the investment is deteriorating the sale should be made whether the loss be great or small.

Believes Polar Bears Killed Two Explorers

Washington —(A)—A sudden attack by polar bears was advanced Saturday by Captain Evelyn B. Baldwin, retired explorer, as the probable cause of the death of two members of the Andree Arctic balloon expedition 30 years ago.

Drawing from his own experiences, he took issue with theories that Solomon August Andree, Swedish scientist, and his two companions were killed by cold, starvation or fumes from their gas stove.

Andree, Knut Frankel and Nils Strindberg, making the first polar attempt by air, disappeared into the north from Dances Island, Spitzbergen, in 1898. They were never seen again until last summer when the remains of their last encampment was found on White Island, Fridtjof Nansen Land.

Baldwin, a member of several earlier Arctic expeditions, missed joining the ill-fated balloon party by just 48 hours, arriving at Dances Island only to find Andree had taken advantage of favorable winds and left two days before.

"From the condition and positions of the bodies when found," Captain Baldwin said, "I am convinced that the death of at least two of them was sudden, and not the result of the cold, lack of supplies or monoxide poisoning."

He recalled that the body of Strindberg was found under loose stones and gravel, indicating Andree had made an attempt to bury him, but that the bodies of Andree and Frankel were mutilated.

"Several years before, when I and two others were in a hut in Franz Joseph Land, with the snow drifted high about us, a polar bear and two half grown cubs tried to get in through the roof. Only the substantial construction of the building prevented their entrance, and I finally shot them."

"My theory is that something similar occurred in Andree's camp, but they were in a tent, and they may have suddenly found a polar bear in their midst. At such close quarters they would have had little chance for their lives."

STILL AT STANDSTILL
Washington—The digible mail and passenger service across the Atlantic, talked about during the past session of Congress, has little hopes of being put into operation until December. At present officials interested in the proposed route are waiting for favorable action from the legislative body before going ahead with further plans.

"Important First Aid Item" Says Dallas Woman

Emma O'Dea

Dallas, Tex.—"Of all the first-aid items in our family medicine chest," says Miss Irma O'Dea, of this city, "none is more important than the bottle of Pluto Mineral Water. We consider it as important as bandages or iodine. One never knows when a member of the family will need it—and it certainly is first-aid for constipation, because of its ability to relieve quickly."

Pluto Water acts quickly and surely, even in the most severe cases of constipation. And, more than that, it is an effective preventive. A small quantity diluted in plain hot or cold water, each morning upon arising, will keep you regular, and help ward off many serious complaints.

Doctors Recommend It

Doctors everywhere recommend Pluto Mineral Water for constipation, because they know its gentle, insistent flushing action cannot harm delicate tissues, cannot form a habit. Get Pluto Water—bottled at French Lick Springs, Ind.—at your druggist's, or at fountains everywhere.

The Longs Needed
$240
to Paint the House
(a true experience)

Another year without paint would do their house untold harm. Besides it was getting to be an eyesore.

"Save the surface and you save all," said Mr. Long, "is certainly true; but I haven't been able this past winter to save enough to save the surface. I simply have to get the money—but where?"

Listening to the Household Celebrities radio program that evening he learned where. He went to the nearest Household office and borrowed the needed $240. Only signatures of husband and wife were required.

No embarrassing investigations were made among friends or employers. And nearly 1/3 less than the lawful rate of interest was charged, without any deductions or extra fees. Up to 20 months was allowed for repayment.

Should your family ever need $50 to $300, for any good reason, you are invited, without obligation to borrow, to phone, call at the nearest Household office, or use the coupon below.
